City council approves $84,000 renewal budget

BY JIM CARRAVALLAH
Roman Staff Writer

The Romulus City Council recently held a special session to approve the city's urban renewal budget of $84,000 for fiscal year 1973-74.

The action came on the heels of a city council denial of all urban renewal warrant payments until the budget was officially approved by the legislative body.

'Salaries make up $54,000 of the $84,000 urban renewal budget.'

The council voted down a request for payment of $32,000 in warrants for the urban renewal department by a 3-3 vote, at the July 12 regular city council meeting. Tie votes in the council proceedings amount to denial of a request.

URBAN RENEWAL Director George Wilhelmi said the passage of the administrative budget was delayed when he could not reach a mutually agreeable time for presentation of his budget to the council.

"I was unwilling to present the whole discussion to the council at a regular meeting, because it would take up too much time," Wilhelmi said.

"I wanted a study session, but we couldn't get a time agreeable to all parties."

A special meeting was set for July 18.

AFTER Wilhelmi's presentation of the budget, the council approved a 5.5 per cent pay boost for Wilhelmi, raising his salary to $14,800 per year, from $14,000 last year.

Wilhelmi receives an extra $3,000 per year as director of the city's public housing program.

The public housing program is separate from the Urban Renewal Program, and is not subject to the pay boost approved by the council.

SALARIES in the urban renewal administrative budget make up $54,000 of the total $84,000.

The remaining $20,000 is divided among travel expenses ($1,600); publication expenses ($4,600); contractural services ($7,000); and equipment and supplies, including $2,800 for a new automobile.

Funds for the administrative costs are taken from the money originally budgeted for urban renewal in April, 1972.

Schools must borrow $400,000 to meet district expenses

The Romulus Board of Education will seek the approval of the State Board of Education to borrow $400,000 from private banking institutions to meet expenses until state aid funds are received for the district.

The action was taken at the Monday night meeting of the board, which also approved the low bid of National Bank of Detroit for interest payments at a rate of 4.40 percent.

The Romulus district is one of numerous districts having to resort to borrowing money to offset state aid funds delayed in the state legislature.

The board also set the winter tax rate at 19 mills to raise money for payment of interest and principal on the bonds to be sold for school construction.

The payments will be on the 1973 bond issue recently approved by Romulus voters.

City improvement progress

While no new programs have been proposed at the Romulus City Hall during the past couple of months, work on continuing programs takes up a good portion of the city's time.

Romulus has been undergoing a high rate of improvement during these past few months, in the area of road paving, drainage work, water and sewer installation and other community improvement projects.

The city is awaiting bids on a more than $600,000 road paving and resurfacing program authorized by the council to improve more than 11.9 miles of roads in the community.

"It's part of our continuing program to pave these dirt roads — a change which will save the taxpayers hundreds of thousands of dollars in the long run, Mayor Hyle Carmichael explained.

By hardsurfacing roads, we eliminate the need for the constant grading and oiling needed to keep up our dirt roads — maintenance which literally goes down the drain with the first rain storm.

The city is awaiting council acceptance of construction bids which opened yesterday. Construction will start within 30 days of council approval.

A comprehensive $100 million storm drainage program is progressing at a normal rate.

"We've held discussions with Huron Township to request their permission to send a major drain intercept through the township to a site at the Huron River," Carmichael said.

The scheme will see drain water from Romulus diverted from the four channels which now carry run-off to the Detroit River and Lake Erie to the intercept which will send a major portion of the city's run-off to the Huron River.

Under the program, residents will save thousands of dollars in maintenance costs for the channels running through other communities.

The mayor indicated the city is entering the planning stage of its fifth phase for water and sewer expansion.

During this stage 18,000 feet of sanitary sewer lines and 12,000 feet of water mains will extend down major thoroughfares to the fringes of the community.

The project will cost $660,000 with funds coming from the water and sewer millage in the community.

The city is also seeing completion of more than $1.1 million in road paving and drainage in the city's urban renewal area.

On the inside

A weeklong Summer Festival is underway in nearby Wayne — and the theme "Getting Together" is an open invitation to area residents to join in the fun. Some of the events and the history of Wayne appears in a special supplement in today's edition of the Roman.

When students return to school this fall, they'll be greeted by a new head football and basketball coach at Romulus High School.

The two appointees were announced by the Romulus Board of Education. See story on the sports pages.

Area townships must try to finance police protection

The Wayne County Board of Commissioners will not extend Wayne County Sheriff's road patrol service to area townships unless the townships make a "good faith" effort to pay for the service.

The road patrol service provided free to townships will be discontinued on Aug. 31. Area township supervisors have asked the county to extend services. They say that at the present time the townships can not support their own police department.

The supervisors have asked the county for a minimum 15-month extension to study possible means of financing police protection.

The county Ways and Means Committee recently returned for more study of a recommendation by the county's Public Safety and Judiciary Committee to extend services through November.

CONTINUED ROAD patrol service for Western Wayne County townships will hinge on whether township officials, who have been strenuously opposing the discontinuance by the sheriff's department of road patrol services, will commit themselves in writing to attempt to pay for the services.

The commissioners instructed the Public Safety and Judiciary Committee to seek written commitments from township officials that they will make a "good faith" effort to pay for the service.

In several past sessions with the Public Safety Committee, township supervisors from the involved areas, repeatedly have said they would have to ask voters to approve additional millage.

The supervisors contend that residents of their respective communities pay taxes to the county and under state statutes are entitled to services of the road patrol.

They also contend that millage proposals to finance their own police departments at this time would be unsuccessful.

IN ADOPTING this year's budget, the county board of commissioners reiterated its intention to end free road patrol service for townships and funded the motorized road patrol only through August.

Mayor refuses political debate

Romulus mayoral candidate Terry L. Troutt has been rebuffed in his challenge of the incumbent mayor to "let me know if you truly would want to take your so-called case to the people" in a debate.

Mayor Hyle Carmichael said a debate between Troutt and himself, "would prove nothing to the voters" and said he will not answer Troutt's challenge to publicly debate before the Aug. 7 primary election.

"Let him campaign and make statements in whatever way he wishes," Carmichael said, "and we'll continue to run our campaign as we see fit.

"I don't believe in bickering back and forth during the election campaigns."

Troutt issued his challenge to debate Carmichael after the mayor urged the voters to ignore "the clown acts" of other candidates and said he would "take his case to the people" Aug. 7 in the primary election.

Troutt wrote in a letter to the mayor: "If you are serious about taking your case to the people, then I would like it

Detroit resident faces exam in lottery-connected shooting

A Detroit resident accused of shooting a fellow employe at the Kelsey-Hayes tire plant in Romulus in a dispute over a winning $10,000 lottery ticket will face pre-trial examination Aug. 2 in Romulus' 34th District Clurt.

He is John P. Reynolds, 48, of 16194 Turner Ave. Reynolds is charged with assault and battery to do "great bodily harm", in the shooting of Blaine V. Gray, 21, of 4752 Lumley St., Detroit.

Reynolds stood mute at his recent arraignment before District Court Judge James B. Stone.

A PLEA of not guilty was entered by Judge Stone and Reynolds was remanded to the Wayne County Jail in lieu of $2,500 bond.

Police said the men were arguing since March about a lottery ticket that won $10,000. Reynolds claims that he bought the ticket. He said that ticket was stolen prior to the drawing at which time Gray presented the winning ticket, police said.

Gray claimed the $10,000 prize and denied stealing the ticket from Reynolds, according to a police report.

The dispute continued on July 16, when Reynolds allegedly pulled a revolver from his pocket and shot Gray in the left hand, police said.

Gray was treated and released from Wayne County General Hospital.

MISCELLANEOUS "TREASURES" — William Raeck, 72, who is about to be absorbed by the progress inspired by the Metropolitan Airport in Romulus, sits among some of his "miscellaneous items" — items he believes are someone's treasures. — Romulus Roman photo.

'Progress' puts area man out of 'goods' business

By JIM CARRAVALLAH
Roman Staff Writer

During his 45 years with the Ford Motor Company, William Raeck of Romulus watched the construction of the Ford Rouge Plant — progress which benefitted him.

Today, Raeck is suffering from another type of construction, the expansion of Metropolitan Airport — progress which he says is putting him out of business.

Raeck, who runs a miscellaneous goods business on the east side of Middlebelt Road south of Northline Road to "keep the mischief out" of his 72-year-old soul, is being moved out.

"A TRUCKING company whose land was absorbed by the airport, is buying the land which puts me out of business," Raeck said. He has operated his miscellaneous goods business from the location for four years. He was renting the property. His inventory has consisted of used toys, wagon wheels, farm utensils, ornaments and antiques.

His business philosophy is "one man's discard is another's treasure."

"Two weeks ago, I got some chicken nests," he said. "I wasn't sure what to do with them, but then people came by. One guy bought some for his rabbits, another bought some for his pigeons. I'm just about out of them now."

Raeck is pleased with his business at the Middlebelt Road location.

"Lots of people come by," he said. "I get customers from Ann Arbor and Kalamazoo.

"Some are just passing through and stop, and others come because a friend told them about me. Everyone finds something he likes here."

The owner claims he is the envy of other retirees.

"The old-timers stop by here to sit and chat," he said. "They tell me, 'You know, Billy, I wish I had something like this to keep me going.'

"It's a lot of used goods, but it's also a good way to keep me occupied."

Raeck has done a number of different jobs, from construction, to maintenance, to line work at Ford, to operating his own juke box business, to running his own miscellaneous goods business.

He boasts that Henry Ford hired him when the auto magnate needed a maintenance man for a new building in the Ford complex.

"He came over to my boss and told him, 'I need someone for the job, and this is the one I want,' " Raeck said. "I got into maintenance then at the building.

"I've seen all the buildings in the complex go up, and did some of the iron work for them, too.

"I'm used to watching progress, but this type of progress (Metro Airport) really hurts, because I was pretty used to the business here."

Disaster victims to get speedy relief under bill

State Rep. Edward E. Mahalak (D-38th district) has questioned whether redtape may be slowing aid to victims of natural disasters.

In a resolution introduced in the House, the Romulus representative has asked for a special committee study of the operability and effectiveness of procedure under which disaster victims may obtain civil defense assistance.

He explains that in flood and tornado disasters this year in several areas of the state it has become apparent that many people in disaster areas are unaware of what procedures to follow to get civil defense equipment and aid. "it is vitally important that in a time of need officials and other people know how to obtain the equipment and other assistance which is available to them through state and federal civil defense offices. They are naturally stricken and often confused. There is no question that they need the aid, but they aren't sure where to go and how to get it," Mahalak said.

"It may be that the procedure is too complicated. Perhaps there is too much redtape involved. There should be an easy way to get what they need, and get it when they need it. It is certainly not the intent of either the federal or state civil defense procedure to make it difficult to receive help. If it is difficult, we should know why, then do something about it."

The resolution asking for the special committee reads, "it is incumbent upon this legislative body to study and investigate the procedures and methods by which civil defense equipment and other assistance is made available to disaster victims. It is important to insure that all civil defense assistance is provided in a time of emergency."

The study committee sought by Mahalak would conduct its investigation this year and next year and report its findings and recommendations to the 1973 legislature.

CYO recruits adults for alcohol program

The Catholic Youth Organization needs area adult volunteers to assist in expanding its efforts to educate young people on the use and abuse of alcohol.

Any adult who is able to devote two to four hours a week to the project can become active in the program by calling Nadia Ponichter, director of the CYO alcohol project, at 963-7172.

"We have received an increasing number of requests to set up alcohol training programs in new locations," Ms. Ponichter said. "To do this, we need the assistance of volunteer site coordinators. We will work with them in obtaining centers for the training classes, recruiting youth to attend the course and setting up the classes."

Volunteers will be invited to attend briefing sessions in September to coordinate the training course for young people later in the fall.

The CYO started its alcohol education program for teenagers two years ago. Since that time, more than 175 young men and women have completed the 14-hour course which explores what alcohol is, what its effects are, what its benefits are and what its dangers.

Romulus pair held guilty on tax rap

William D. and Hattie Mae Jones of Romulus, were indicted yesterday by the Grand Jury in Detroit for willfully evading their income taxes for the years 1967, 1968 and 1969.

Assistant U.S. Attorney Loren G. Keenan said the indictment charged that although the Jones reported income for the three years involved of $6,202.58 and paid taxes of $1,426.17 they should have reported income of $119,341.44 and paid taxes of $35,793.92.

During the last several years the Jones have done business as Jones Excavating Company. This company did excavating, landscaping, trucking, housewrecking and rubbish removal.

The indictment returned by the Grand Jury consisted of three counts, one for each of the years 1967, 1968 and 1969. The maximum penalty for each count is a fine of $10,000 and imprisonment of five years, or both.

Air line to use X-ray

United Air Lines this week became the first airline to put a newly-developed portable x-ray machine into use at the Romulus-based Metropolitan Airport for speeding up the screening of carry-on bags and parcels.

United's Detroit city manager, Bud Praven, said the portable screening device will eliminate the need to open and search the contents of briefcases, overnight bags, parcels, and other such items and "provide a maximum of protection with a minimum of inconvenience to the passsenger."

The carry-on baggage inspection system was developed by the Bendix Corporation, working with United's technical specialists.

Of a specially low-intensity, the new x-ray equipment, poses no danger to persons, and will not damage such items as magnetic tapes, photographic film or pharmaceuticals.

With the new equipment carry-on items can be screened in as little as 15 seconds, compared with a minimum of several minutes for manual inspection.

The parcel or bag is carried past the small x-ray machine on a 10-foot conveyor belt. An inspector views the contents on a small video monitor.

It is estimated that less than five per cent of the items screened would require further inspection. The system employs micro-circuity and short-pulse x-rays. If the contents appear suspicious, the x-ray camera can zoom in for a closer look, Praven said.

Huron Community School District initiates adult education program

An adult education program for downriver senior citizens has been initiated by the Huron Community School District.

The program, already under way with 11 other classes to begin in September, will cover subjects from government to arts and crafts but will be "especially geared to the needs of the senior citizens."

The school district's regular adult education program attracted nearly 1,000 students during the last school year. Like the regular program, classes will be offered at no cost and have no residency requirement.

THE CLASSES offered will be in current arts and crafts, politics, literature, economics, home economics, drama, local government, chorus, oil painting, ceramics and Bible study.

Huron Community Education Director Roger Benner said the program is unusual both in its teaching approach and in the way it utilizes school facilities.

"We want to meet a need in every class," Benner said. "There is no reason to limit classes to basic education for senior citizens. Many senior citizens don't fully understand medicare, Social Security, taxes and they are intitled to. So our class in economics will discuss such things."

"Several politicians and government officials will speak on areas related to their fields in some of the classes."

THE CLASS under way is called current events. Instead of spending a greater part of the time in the classroom, members of this class are being bused to events such as baseball games and the zoo. Members of the class will discuss areas such as animal behavior and sportsmanship.

Persons desiring to enter the program must register with the school district by Sept. 28. Benner said that 200 already have enrolled in the program.

'Progress' puts man out of his business

Raeck has been in the miscellaneous goods business for the past six years, ever since he retired.

"I work here seven days a week, all hours, but I enjoy it," he explained. "I guess when they move me out Aug. 1, I'll just take a year off, and then get into business in another place."

Raeck said he is not the only resident of Romulus who has suffered from expansion.

"I got some of this stuff (his merchandise) from an 85-year-old woman who was told to get out of the house she's lived in all her life," Raeck said. "She was real sad to leave. She only lived there three or four months before she died."

Another friend of Raeck's operated a fruit farm on 15 acres of land on Merriman Road, in the path of the expansion.

"He just got to where he was going good when they moved him out," Raeck said. "He got himself seven acres in Carlton, but it wasn't the same — takes a long time to get into the business really good.

"He was down there about a year and then shot himself."

Raeck said he won't give in to the set-back caused by expansion, however. "You can't fight it, but I'll just take some time off and start up again someplace else," he said. "In a way, I resent the airport moving me out, but I guess you can't stop progress. "Thing is, sometimes progress has to stop to let people live a decent life."

Group forms committee to inform citizens of issues

The American Progressive Association, a 20-year-old Romulus citizen action group, has formed a political action committee to inform the citizens of Romulus on the issues and candidates in upcoming political elections.

The committee set goals of motivating community action on community issues; presenting public officials and their positions to the public, and informing the public and offering direction on candidates and political issues.

Scheduled for the coming months are political rallies and public meetings for the candidates to present their stands on issues to the citizens of the community.

Both the mayoral candidates and all independent candidates for public office in Romulus will receive invitations to participate in the rallies.

Chairman of the committee is LaVerne McGee. Serving on the committee are Thomas Coleman, Ernest Davis, Dorothy Phenix, Zeppie Beaunum and Theresa Washington.

Union employes ratify contract

By JIM CARRAVALLAH

The members of the service employes union of the People's Community Hospital Authority (PCHA) agreed by a 4-1 margin to ratify its contract with the authority.

Ratification came more than one month after the employes voted by a more than 10-1 margin to reject the contract, because it did not spell out provisions for retroactive pay dating back to April, when the contract expired.

Terms of the contract gave the more than 1,100 employes of Local 79 of the Service Employes International Union (SEIU) of the authority's four hospitals, an across the board 18 cent per hour increase in wages.

PCHA FACILITIES include Annapolis in Wayne, Outer Drive in Lincoln Park, Seaway in Trenton and Beyer in Ypsilanti.

The total wage package was a 5.5 per cent increase over last year's total payroll for union members of $8.6 million. The 5.5 per cent wage increase was the maximum allowed under the national wage freeze restrictions on workers in the health industry.

In addition ot the 5.5 per cent increase, union members received a seven-tenths per cent increase in fringe benefits, bringing total compensation for the employes under the contract to $10.1 million.

The fringe benefit allowance was the maximum under the wage freeze restrictions.

ACCORDING to Thomas Marsh, a staff representative of Local 79 of the SEIU, the vote for ratification was 168 - 41.

The contract had been rejected in a 391-35 vote more than a month ago, after the negotiators did not spell out an agreed upon position of retroactive pay dating back to April.

Shortly after the vote, the PCHA Board of Directors unanimously voted to approve the retroactive pay — providing the union accept the offer prior to July 16.

The July 16 deadline was moved back to today by a state mediator, after a mediation meeting on the contract was scheduled for July 16.

ACCORDING to Leo Bonamy, personnel director for the authority, the wage settlement was generous.

"What else can you call a settlement but generous, when you offer the maximum allowed by law?" Bonamy said. "The board of directors has directed me to maintain a high average pay rate when compared to the hospital industry, and I believe this new contract maintains that rate.

"The authority does not have to apologize for either fringe benefits or wages. These people are paid near the top of the scale."

Yet to be decided in the contract is a union demand for equal pay for equal work between the sexes, Bonamy said.

THE UNION said work being performed by orderlies — most of whom are male — and nurse aides — most of whom are female — is essentially the same, and therefore should be compensated at the same rate.

Presently, the differential between an Orderly I, the highest of the two orderly classifications, and a Nurse Aide is 43 cents per hour.

The equal pay metter is before a Department of Labor Research Committee, which is making the determination after SEIU representatives filed suit in the midst of contract negotiations.

The suit came as a surprise to both the authority and the union leaders, since the action was taken from Local 79 Detroit-area headquarters rather than from the local level, Bonamy said.

NO DATE has been set for a finding on the labor department's investigation but, if the department should rule in favor of the union, the authority has agreed to meet the demand.

If the labor department rules there should be equal pay, payroll costs for the Authority could soar by $380,000 almost immediately, Bonamy said.

There are 418 nurse aides in the authority's hospitals and 59 orderlies in the Orderly II pay classification.

Bonamy said the increased payroll will not be the only problem faced by the authority in the event of an equal pay ruling.

"THE RULING and order for increased pay would throw the salary structure of the authority out of phase," Bonamy said. "Right now, the nurse aides fit into a certain level of salary when compared to other skills in the authority.

Finance program needed

At an earlier session of the Public Safety Committee, the committee recommended that the 28 patrolmen's positions assigned to the road patrol be extended through Nov. 30 at a cost of $91,980.

However, the Ways and Means Committee voted 16-4 to send the recommendation back with a directive that the other committee solicit the written commitments from township desiring the service.

At present five patrol cars are on duty around the clock in the 210-square mile area formed by the townships of Canton, Van Buren, Huron, Northville, Plymouth, Sumpter and Brownstown.

The supervisors of these townships have threatened to take the board of commissioners to court if the road patrol division is discontinued.

offer you the opportunity to keep your promise by facing me in a public debate and let the people of Romulus test your statement, intentions and your administrative record of the last 3½ years."

Carmichael answered: "I can't bother taking time from my duties in office to debate the issues with a challenger. We must go forward with what we think should be done for the city, and allow the voters to make their choice at the polls."

CYO hotline to give VD information

In an effort to combat the spread of venereal disease, the Detroit Catholic Youth Orannization (CYO) reminds area residents that a toll free hot-line has been instituted.

The hot line, called "Operation Venus" will supply confidential information about the danger signs of VD and the treatment.

CYO said the disease has spread to epidemic proportions among young people in the United States.

The national toll-free number is 1-800-523-1885.

Callers can get pertinent information about the symptoms of the disease as well as referrals to the VD treatment centers in the caller's own neighborhood.

Callers do not need to identify themselves. The discussions are completely confidential.

Jaycees realize profit

The Romulus Jaycees realized a profit of more than $1,000 from their July 5 through 8 spring and summer festival at the Romulus Senior High School.

Proceeds from this project will be used to finance community projects during the next year.

As part of the carnival, two bicycles were given away to Phil Rokotz and Kim Ocholik, 9606 Wash Rd., Romulus.

"I want to extend a special thanks to the Romulus School Board, the city administration, the Wayne County Sherriff and the people of Romulus for their help and participation," said Gordon Silvey, chairman of the carnival.

GOOD SHOPPING IS A PRIMARY NEED IN ROMULUS

Local businesses are spread far apart and are not enough to satisfy all family needs. In considering volumn, choice assortment, and easy parking, people go to other places where they can find these essentials.

We can do many things to help resolve this business shortage. One of them is to patronize the businesses we already have. Another is to give attention to beautification, cleanliness, inviting window displays and signs, in short, a glamourization of the Romulus business districts.

Romulus must look as if it wanted and expected people to shop there.

No single idea is going to solve the problem of getting super markets, department stores, men and women apparel shops, etc. here in Romulus.

As your representative on the Romulus City Council I will encourage and support all ideas that will contribute to Romulus business development.

This is one of the issues I have been working on as a charter member of the Romulus Chamber of Commerce, owner of Dolores' Resale Shop, and concerned citizen. Operating in a bigger field on the Romulus City Council I will have more opportunities for action.

When the Detroit Metropolitan International Airport came to this area, Romulus was a small township. Metro and Romulus have grown together. Now the Airport is giant-size and Romulus is geographically the second largest city in Michigan. It is inevitable that there be some conflicts.

Of one thing we are sure: Romulus and Metro are both here to stay, so they must learn to live together.

Here are some of the ways in which this living together can be made amicable:

(a) Develope plans which are now underway for official and continuing communication between airport and city.

(b) Fair consideration must be given by all concerned to the needs, rights, and feelings of others. Knowledge of the problems involved are needed to accomplish this.

(c) All airport planning must be not only l-o-n-g range, but information must be made available to the public.

My experience in Romulus civic affairs has given me an understanding of airport versus Romulus problems. As a member of the Romulus City Council I can do much to resolve some of the current conflicts and to bring about conditions that will be good for the people of the community as well as for the airport.

Free Berliners labeled it a 'wall of shame'

By MITCH KEHETIAN
Editor

Berliners call it "Schandmauer" — the Wall of Shame.

On August 13, the 12th anniversary of the infamous Berlin Wall will come to pass...and because of man's desire for freedom — another life may be stilled at the wall.

The divided German capital, once the springboard for Hitler's insane plot to enslave mankind — now serves as a reminder of another 'ism' bent on clamping the lid to freedom.

In the summer of 1971, while en route to Moscow — our PanAm flight landed at the East Berlin Airport for fueling and additional passengers.

When instructed to deplane for several hours, I asked what my chances were of getting a taxi to see the Berlin Wall. An English-speaking airport guard responded: "There's nothing to see. It's just a wall to stop traitors..."

Several hours later as we reboarded for the takeoff, an airline hostess said: "look to the right when we're in flight. You should be able to get a glimpse of the wall."

'...if we do not stand there, where will we stand later.'--John F. Kennedy

I didn't bother to look.

The Wall of Shame was put up on the night of Aug. 13, 1961 — first as a 26-mile barbed wire barricade. Within a few weeks — a concrete wall replaced the barbed wire.

The citizens of West Berlin often refer to themselves as "islanders in a Red Sea" — divided by a wall the East German communists constructed.

Before the wall was constructed, more than three million persons had crossed over into that small island of freedom and on to other bastions of democracy.

And since the wall went up, others made that dash to freedom — and most of them died at the base of the wall. Men, women and children — shot and killed by their fellow Germans.

Until the wall comes down, there can be no freedom in Berlin — for east and west. The wall stands as a monument of shame.

This past year President Richard Nixon has taken two giant steps in breaking down the barriers that separate east and west...let us hope the next step will break down the wall and all walls, be they concrete, steel or invisible barriers of shame.

When nations must build walls to contain the people, then all sense of freedom grinds under the weight of despair and concrete.

And I recall the June 26, 1963 warning issued by President John F. Kennedy. In his call to crack a threatened Soviet air-blockade to West Berlin, the late President said in part: "...if we do not stand there, where will we stand later."

Five months later an assassin's bullets silenced Kennedy...but to this day, and again on each August 13 — West Berliners remember the American President who came to their city to attack the Wall of Shame.

If the leaders of East Germany are sincere in their overtures to peace, trade and understanding...Walls of Shame must be torn down.

The first wall to feel the ax of freedom must be the Berlin Wall...

Though wishful thinking, the wall should come down on August 13...this year or the next — but down it must come.

A deserving honor to Jean and Elvera

Two news items appearing in last week's edition of The Enterprise-Roman deserve comment in these columns—namely the testimonial dinner in honor of Elvera Fischer of Romulus and Jean Richert's election to serve as president of the Huron School District's Board of Education.

Elvera's 20 years of service to the community of Romulus goes beyond her professional work at city hall. Her years of dedicated public service includes involvement in projects designed for the betterment of mankind.

In an interview with Reporter Jim Carravallah, the long-time city employe said: "I enjoy working for people...and I kind of like it here..."

City hall is fortunate to have an employe with the caliber possessed by Elvera Fischer...we wish her many more years of public service to the citizens of Romulus.

And over in the Huron school district, Jean Richert becomes the first woman to ever serve the board as president...an honor that came her way at the board's organizational meeting.

Residents of New Boston know about Jean's dedication to public education, a fact recognized by the seven-member Huron board.

We commend the board's action, and urge other units of government and business to recognize the talent and dedication women can offer to public service.

With dedicated citizens such as Jean Richert and Elvera Fischer, the citizens of Romulus and the Huron school district can take pride in the operation of their respective city and school governments.

To the Editor:

On behalf of myself and the Lipinski family, I would like to publicly express my appreciation to all the wonderful nurses and aides who cared for my mother at the Van Buren Convalescent Center.

My mother received daily, huge amounts of tender loving care — beyond measure. I'm sure it was this kind of attention that made my mother's last days as peaceful as anyone could wish for a loved one.

Just knowing that these wonderful women were caring for mother gave us all a great peace of mind.

Mere "thank yous" will never begin to express how deep our appreciation reaches.

'Down with signs'

To the Editor: When I go to the polls on primary election day in Romulus, I will not vote for candidates who have splattered our city with political signs...just look at all the signs on utility poles and trees.

These same candidates talk about beautification and environment—yet they litter our city with signs galore. By the way, I thought there was a law against political signs being nailed on public utility poles?

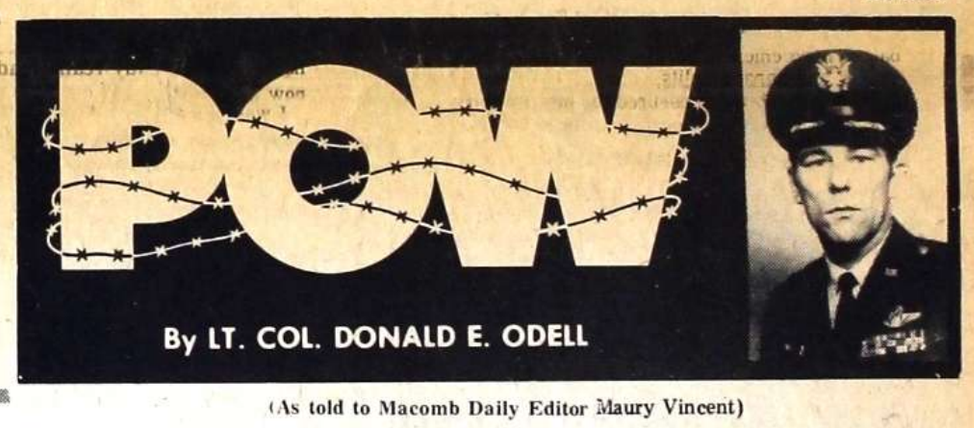
Col. Odell tells his story-part 5

The long voyage home



(As told to Macomb Daily Editor Maury Vincent)

Copyright 1973 by The Macomb Daily

The attempted escape of an Army officer from a camp just outside Hanoi in January of 1970 triggered another round of tight security, continual harassment and intensified propaganda efforts on the part of our captors.

At about this time, also, I began having severe headaches and a loss of vision with partial paralysis of my left side. The symptoms were suspiciously like those of a stroke but it could have been due to the neck injury resulting in a pinched nerve. Again I was given a series of shots and eventually over a period of weeks the symptoms disappeared.

Again the attitude of our captors reversed and we were permitted outside for short periods of time but we could not visit with the other prisoners in the compound. We suspected it was to keep us off balance mentally and in a constant state of wonder as to what was going on.

Generally, living conditions also improved. We were allowed to ladle our own meals from big containers brought to us, we were no longer required to bow down, the brutality seemed to have stopped and we were premitted to speak in a normal tone of voice instead of in whispers as we had been forced to do previously.

In September of 1970 I had been moved to a new compound in the "Zoo" which had high walls designed to prevent communications and keep us physically isolated. But our communications network, after a brief interruption, resumed again.

Letter arrives

It was also in Spetember that I received the first letter from Shirley. Upon my release, I discovered she had written regularly during all those years. That single letter brought me a great surge of joy as I read of how and she and the children were doing back home.

It's difficult to express my inner feelings at that moment. Suffice it to say I was overcome with joy to the point of tears.

The following December we were told to pack up and the entire compound was moved to the Hanoi Hilton encampment in downtown Hanoi. We were stripped of everything, subjected to a complete clothing and personal body search, tied and blindfolded and moved out. We were later to learn this was a result of the attempted rescue by U.S. Commando forces of prisoners at the Son Tay camp west of Hanoi.

At the Hanoi Hilton, the North Vietnamese appeared nervous and jumpy. They put machine guns on all the walls and throughout the compound. In retrospect, I guess they were afraid President Nixon would carry out threats to send forces in to rescue all the prisoners of war.

Hanoi Hilton

In a way, the move to the Hanoi Hilton was a tremendous experience because for the first time all of the POWs, we figured, were now in one compound consisting of seven large buildings holding from 27 to 50 men each. The reality we had to face later was that there were only 342 of us and not the 478 we had previously thought. All we could figure was that many had died because if ill treatment, brutal interrogation and sickness.

Again we set up our elaborate communications network. Naturally, this was a big thorn in the side of the North Vietnamese but each time they plugged one hole we opened another so that the line of communications was never broken for very long. Within weeks we had a complete system of contact. I was designated the communications officer. We set up a complete military table of organization with the senior ranking officer, Col. John Flynn (now General Flynn) of the 4th Combined POW Wing, as commanding officer. The ranking officer in each building became squadron commander under the Wing. Guidelines and operations orders were "headquarters" to all squadron commanders. We had formed a united front against our enemy. We named our prison complex "Camp Unity."

Many days we worked as much as eight hours to insure passage of communication traffic both ways and to decode and classify the information being passed around.

Still in irons

In January of 1971 we began to protest the treatment of our senior officers, many of whom were still in irons and had been for a long time. We refused cigarettes and cut down on our food rations. It was tough for me personally, because I was just beginning to gain back some of the 50 pounds I had lost in the months after my capture when I weighed 180 pounds. We also wanted the Viet Cong to recognize our senior officers as such and accord them the military dignity of internal command over us as a military organization. Some men were removed from irons and, generally, the ill treatment stopped except for isolated cases of brutality and mistreatment.

But our officers were never acknowledged as men of military rank.

In October of 1971 our building "squadron" was moved back to the Zoo and we were finally given some books, magazines and even paper and pencils on which to write letters home, heavily censored, of course. The letters we received were given us individually in a small room away from the compound. After reading the letter in the presence of a guard, we had to return it to our captors.

We also began to play some volleyball and basketball in the courtyard where we had set up the nets and backstops. Those of us in the same building were permitted such activity once or twice a week.

For propaganda

It stopped quickly however when the North Vietnamese began taking pictures of us to exploit for propaganda purposes throughout the world as evidence of "humane treatment." We denied them this opportunity and refused to participate in sports.

The mood called for rejoice and dedication-they sang 'God Bless America'

This upset our captors but all they did was tell us we were not obeying camp regulations and that we were not showing "respect" for their efforts to improve our situation.

This rather mild reaction struck us as odd and gave us an inkling that maybe, after all, our situation was improving.

In July of 1971 we began getting powdered milk in the morning with sugar added. It was about this time that a new 8-point proposal had been presented at the Paris peace talks by North Vietnam and it was felt that the U.S would accept the proposal. Because of this, we started getting those little "goodies" to make it look as though we were getting the best of care.

Bombing resumes

In April of 1972 we were moved back to the main compound in the Hanoi Hilton. The bombing of North Vietnam had resumed and we had the fighter-bombers sweeping directly over the camp on some occasions, almost seemingly to let us know they were back and giving us the "fly by" salute.

We began setting up an elaborate volunteer system among the POWs to help if a rescue attempt was made. These "suicide squads" would serve as a protective wall for the others if a combat confrontation came about. The North Vietnamese, too, were reacting by putting up ladders against the high outside windows and covering us with automatic weapons in the cells. We were told that if the helicopters came we would all be shot.

The confrontation never came and on May 13, 1972, some 209 of us, myself included, were tied, blindfolded and trucked to a mountain camp we calculated to be near the China border. During the trip, with temperatures over the 100 mark, we were kept in the truck during a stop of several hours. With the truck tarpaulins tied tightly down, we almost suffocated.

The camp had no water and no electricity and nestled against a sheer rock cliff of some 500 feet with large trees overhanging the compound area. We again set up our military structure and communications system. We began receiving bits of water buffalo meat in our diet and were permitted to write monthly letters home but we found later they were never mailed. This treatment, and the placement of the camp, led us to believe we might be held as hostages which the North Vietnamese had threatened to do until all agreements, including restoration of their country, had been met.

On October 25, 1972, we were reshuffled so that we found we had been arranged in housing groups according to the date of capture. It gave us an inkling that the end might be near.

Six months

Later, in December, when we heard about the renewed bombings of North Vietnam by B-52s, we said among ourselves we would be home in six months.

We were home in three.

Excitement had been building up and, on January 19, during great activity in the camp involving trucks and visiting dignitaries, we asked one of our interrogators point blank if we were going home.

In broken English he replied:

"I cannot say anything but you will be extremely happy over what happens to you within the next month or so."

That night, we were all moved to "The Plantation" compound, arriving about mid-morning of January 20. Within the next two days our senior officers moved in with us (this was out of the ordinary) and there was a lot of goings and comings on the part of high-ranking Vietnamese officers.

About January 28, 1973, we were taken to a courtyard and lined up in ranks before a table with loudspeakers and tape recording equipment.

It was here, in the dusty compound of "The Plantation" prison, that the signed agreement between the United States and North Vietnam was read to us in Vietnamese by a major called "Bushy" because of his bushy hair, and translated by an interpreter we knew as "The Rat" or Rabies" because he was so skinny and diseased-looking.

Did we shout, cheer, jump up and down or slap each other on the back?

Shook hands

No — There was no outbreak of emotion there in that compound. We merely turned to one another, smiled, shook hands and some of us said: "The end has finally come."

I think if there was real emotion shown at the news it was done in the confinement of our respective rooms, away from our captors. Even such outward displays of emotion, however, could not adequately express the happiness that prevailed among us.

Again housed in cells according to date of capture, we began speculating on the date of our release. In my particular room, we figured early March, perhaps the 13th.

Our release came on March 14, 1973.

Within two or three days of learning about our release, we were permitted to mingle outdoors, do exercise, run in the courtyard, play volleyball and, for the first time, permitted all the bread we could eat.

The first group was preparing to leave at this time.

On March 10, my group was taken out to the main building and we were fitted with civilian clothing consisting of a dark pair of pants, light blue shirt and blue windbreaker, and a pair of black shoes ... all ill fitting.

Returned to cells

Three days later, a large group of officers and civilians representing the four-power International Control Commission arrived in camp, accompanied by the news media, and a press conference was called. We were assembled in the courtyard that afternoon and told we would depart the camp the next day. (March 14). At that press conference, four POWs were called to speak for our group. The ranking officer refused to make any statements because Col. Flynn was still the ranking POW and the North Vietnamese continued to ignore his rank. The four POWs then left and returned to their cells.

Just prior to the courtyard incident, each POW had received a package from the International Red Cross ... the first we had been permitted in all our years of captivity. In our eyes, this again proved how small our captors were capitalizing on this now to prove their humaneness to the world.

About noon on March 14 we were all assembled in the courtyard and told to take with us those items we intended to carry home ... all of which, incidentally, were thoroughly searched.

Shortly after noon we put on the civilian clothes we were to were to wear and then we boarded the buses which would take us to Gia Lam airport outside Hanoi.

No blindfolds

For the first time in all the years of our captivity we were permitted to board a vehicle without the customary blindfold and ropes around our wrists.

At about 2:30 that afternoon we began loading aboard the giant U.S. Air Force C-141 planes which we saw parked on the airfield.

One by one we were called by name to a desk where we saluted the American officer who told each of us:

"Welcome back, I know you've waited a long time for this day."

His words brought a lump to my throat and similarly moved the other POWs, I'm sure.

On our plane, as I'm sure happened on each of the others, a spontaneous roar went up when we felt the wheels leave the runway and the surging engines lifted us skyward ... we realized we were free men again and would soon be reunited with our families and friends.

Tears of joy

In fact, the moment was so overwhelming for us that, almost to a man, we raised our voices in tribute to our wonderful country by singing, "God Bless America" ... joined almost instantaneously by all the crew members, the three nurses, two male attendants, three military photographers and two doctors. As we looked around at one another, there wasn't a face that didn't have tears trickling down through the smiles.

And then came a delicious moment when we were served any flavor milk shake we wanted ... something we'd all looked forward to upon our release.

The flight to Clark Air Force Base in the Philippines took about 2½-3 hours and we loved every moment of it as we lost the coastline of North Vietnam far below us and headed out over the Gulf of Tonkin. At Clark AFB, we were met by hundreds of people who had turned out to welcome us and witness our first step on friendly soil after all those years.

Old glory

But the greatest impact at that moment was to see the honor guard step forward with that beautiful American flag waving above them.

Taken to the military hospital on base, we were to stay there about three days for routine examinations and to give time for the incubation of any disease we hay have picked up during captivity.

That night we went to the hospital mess and for the first time in years we sat together at a table and ate huge quantities of steak, eggs, ham, bacon, fried chicken, potatoes, ice cream, milk shakes and banana splits.

Later, after being measured for new military uniforms, we were all permitted to call home.

Beautiful moment

Forgive me, please, if I do not share with you that beautiful moment when, for the first time in 5½ years, I was able to speak to my wife, Shirley, and our children.

The following days were spent in undergoing extensive physical examinations. Everything possible was done to make us comfortable and our every need was met. The people there at Clark AFB were simply wonderful to us.

I had been scheduled to depart the Philippines on Sunday, March 18, but I had come down with bronchial pneumonia which delayed my departure several days.

On the 19th of March, however, I was deemed fit to travel, although it was recommended that I rest on the plane and drink as much liquids as possible.

We arrived in Honolulu for a refuel stop and were again met by throngs of well wishers. Each of us were given mementoes of the visit as we took off for Travis Air Force Base in California.

As we approached the San Francisco Bay area, we were all literally glued to the portholes for our first glimpse of home soil. Again we were met by a tremendous throng of cheering well-wishers.

Bound for home

From here, we were split up in flights to our individual home areas. Our stops included St. Louis, Mo., where, as senior officer in the group I expressed to the airport crowd our happiness at being home and our gratitude to the American people.

We then went on to Wright-Patterson Air Force Base in Dayton, Ohio, where I was met by my wife, Shirley, our children and parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Fleig.

At Wright-Patterson, I was detained for two weeks undergoing extensive x-rays on my neck and gave the doctors a complete history of my physical state during captivity. My evenings were my own and I spent them with my family.

On April 7, 1973, Shirley accompanied me on the homeward flight to Metropolitan Airport. My children and parents had already preceded us home.

At Metropolitan Airport, I felt I might be approaching a state of shock as literally thousands of well wishers thronged the concourse to greet me. There were people I had known in Pontiac, back home in Harrison Township and many, many others from my past life as well as hundreds of strangers.

The band, cheerleaders and choir from Pontiac High School was there and, during a lull in the noise, they began singing, "No Man Is An Island."

Festive event

I guess I would have to say that I came closest then to losing my composure than at any time since leaving North Vietnam.

It was a joyous event for me but one to be repeated shortly among my own neighbors.

We sped along I-94 in a police motorcade that brought us directly to Harrison Township where, at the laughing request of my old fishing friend, Fire Chief Nick Barsheff, Shirley and I boarded a fire truck for the procession to our home.

That smiling crowd clustered around our house and driveway really made me feel that now ... at last...

I was home.

Rec panel holds meet on parks

The Van Buren Township Recreation Commission will hold a special session at 8 p.m. Monday to discuss and recommend operational procedures and recreational programs and activities for township use of Edison Pointe Park, located on the north shore of Belleville Lake.

The public meeting will be held at the township hall, 46425 Tyler Rd. west of Belleville Road.

Edison Pointe Park, a 101-acre recreational site, and the six-mile-long Belleville Lake, now owned by the Detroit Edison Co., is in the legal process of being transferred to Van Buren Township.

The company is transferring the ownership of both the lake and park to the township as a gift.

Actual use of the park and lake under township ownership is not expected until next year.

The recreation commission also announced that the annual election of officers will be held at the Aug. 16 session of the commission.

Robertson said the township administration is stepping up its efforts to make recreational activities more of a "dynamic part" of community life.

He urged township residents to attend meetings of the commission and participate in its discussions. The commission meets on the third Thursday of each month at the township hall.

Recreation director is William A. Loyd.

Sumpter park to install swings, water fountain

Sumpter Township Board has approved the purchase of new swings for Sumpter Park No. 1 and authorized the administration to contract for the installation of water fountains in the park.

Also approved by the township board was the taking of bid proposals for a back stop for Little League baseball players.

The bids must comply with Little League specifications.

In other matters, the township board approved the appointment of Kenneth Shropshire of Sumpter Township as part time dog warden at $3 per hour from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Approved a lawn mowing bid calling for the payment of $45 for two mowings per month.

Denied a rezoning request filed by Kirby Wilson and approved the installation of an air conditioning unit in the recently ordered police car.

My fellow citizens:

We have all by this time been introduced to all the candidates seeking office in this current city election. This years election will be one of the most important in our city's history. We can either elect those who will move our city ahead for the betterment of the people; or remain stalemated with our present city council.

This city does not need old warriors who resurrect themselves out of the past. But rather men of dedication and conscience. We need men who are problem solvers, not problem makers. Men who view a crisis as a chance frought with glorious possibilities, and defeat as only a momentary setback. We need men of imagination. For it was imagination that put man on the moon. And it is imagination that will find the difficult answers to our city's ills. The problems may at times seem overwhelming, but with men of sound judgement and vision, they are not insurmountable.

I make no promises I cannot keep, or pledges I cannot fulfill. For I pledge to the citizens of Romulus, my best efforts to help them help themselves. The citizens of Romulus deserve more than talk! They deserve "Action" with "Progress". They deserve more than broken promises and forgotten pledges. They deserve trust, and faith, and total confidence in their city's leadership.

I believe, that I fill these qualifications. And I ask your support in giving me the opportunity to serve you. Not just part time, but every day and in every way.

Thank You!

A THOUGHT TO REMEMBER

BY HAROLD REDISKE, DIRECTOR

No one can condemn the goodness in being a Good Samaritan, but there are times when common sense should tell us NOT to be a Good Samaritan. A Good Samaritan motorist is victimized by a hitchhiker almost every day. In one place or another, an incident of robbery, rape, murder or physical violence is reported. Just as you can not tell a book by the cover, you can not in an instant of stopping, determine a deserving, decent hitchhiker from a thumb-bum hoodlum. Yet, despite wide spread police warnings, drivers continue to pick up hitchhikers. These Good Samaritan drivers are literally asking for trouble.

Not too long ago, the New Jersey state police investigated turnpike hitchhikers. They found 162 runaways, 98 A.W.O.L. servicemen, 7 escapees from mental hospitals, and 5 escaped convicts. In addition, fingerprints identified 500 others with criminal records.

When you pick up a hitchhiker, you are making a guess that can affect your own safety and protection. Too many people have already guessed wrong. You can too. Is the guess worth the risk?...

Bridesmaids in blue attend Miss Sucheski

Mr. and Mrs. Gary Sherman are making their home in Concord, California, following their summer marriage at St. Ursula's Catholic Church, Ypsilanti.

The bride, the former Karen Sucheski, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chet Sucheski of 2319 George Street, Ypsilanti. Her bridegroom is the son of the H. Shermans of 765 Harris Rd., Ypsilanti.

A floral cluster headpiece secured the bride's bouffant veil and she carried a nosegay bouquet of white daisies and pink roses with ribbon streamers.

MISS PATTY Spencer of Ypsilanti attended the bride as maid of honor, and matron of honor for the ceremony was Mrs. Barbara Gorham of Belleville. Summer hazard-food poisoning

It's picnic time in Michigan and when it comes to picnic foods, ants aren't the only hazard. The pontential danger of food poisoning accompanies every picnic or outdoor meal, according to the Food Inspection division of the Michigan Department of Agriculture.

Wood still tops

Wood is a favored material for buildings planned for future remodeling or enlarging.

Michigan tomatoes are in season now

Brighten your summer days with flavorful Michigan vine-ripened tomatoes. This juicy, colorful fruit is versatile, economical and rich in vitamins C and A.

Michigan's vine-grown tomato season starts in late July and continues until freezing weather occurs about mid-October. Nationally, Michigan is seventh in production of tomatoes for the fresh market. Major growing areas are Berrien, Lenawee, Macomb, Monroe and Van Buren counties.

Last year, Michigan produced 47.2 million pounds of fresh market tomatoes valued at nearly $7 million, according to marketing officials of the Michigan Department of Agriculture.

When buying fresh Michigan tomatoes, look for smooth, firm tomatoes, reasonably free from blemishes. A fully ripe Michigan tomatoe has rich red color and yields to gentle pressure in your hand. Those less than fully ripe have firmer texture and range in color from pink to light red.

To retain the high vitamin content and bright color, food experts say you should store ripe tomatoes in good light, but not to direct sunlight, at temperatures ranging from 65 to 75 degrees, unwrapped.

Tomatoes that are not fully ripe will ripen off the vine for 5 to 6 days. But that old vegetable inspectors at the Michigan Department of Agriculture recommend you place them in a brown paper bag away from the light so they'll ripen more evenly. Once ripe, you can store them in the frigerator to keep for several days.

Serve Michigan tomatoes candied, grilled, baked, stewed, fried, and in casseroles, custards, puddings and tarts. For baked stuffed tomatoes, use a variety of delicious fillings like creamed green peas, mushrooms, bread crumb stuffing, cheddar cheese and bacon bits or mashed potatoes. Uncooked tomatoes provide a bright, refreshing addition to any meal.

Family honors Jeffrey

A family brunch followed the Sunday christening of three-week old Jeffrey Richard, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Smolinski of 10116 Van Buren, Belleville.

The ceremony took place at St. Anthony's Catholic Church with the baby's maternal great-aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Hans Hunsch of Vorst, Germany, as godparents.

Great on grill

Beef offers a variety of cuts for outdoor grill-top cookery. Tender steaks such as Porterhouse, T-bone, sirloin, club, rib and rib eye are ideal for broiling, but they're not the only choice. Marinated blade steaks, top round and cubed steaks are also appropriate selections. Tender cubes of beef for kabobs as well as ground beef for plain and fancy hamburgers are other good market choices for the grill.

Hog history

Hog history dates back to about 2,000 B.C. in Asia. The popularity of pork soon spread to Europe and in 1539 hogs were brought to what is now Florida by Hernando DeSoto. As the colonists arrived, hogs became "standard equipment" — a dependable source of meet for the hard-pressed pioneers. Moving with the settlers, hogs went through the Cumberland Gap into Kentucky, Tennessee, Southern Ohio, Indiana and Illinois, then up the Mississippi Valley.

As the country developed the demand for pork in the towns and cities grew, moving pork from the "grown for home consumption" category into a vital position in the agricultural marketing - meat processing distribution economy.

Tuna Salad Italiana

For your recipe file

Tuna salad with a flair

Young and old will love this colorful salad because it combines two favorites, canned tuna and macaroni — along with red onion rings, sliced celery and carrot "blossoms".

The macaroni should be cooked in the Italian manner, al dente, which means "to the tooth" or firm.

"No work" canned tuna is one of the most popular summer dishes. Its tempting flavor is just right for a variety of recipes. It's not "heavy" — yet it leaves you feeling satisfied — because, after all, it's a complete protein food comparable to lean meat.

And it still is a great food bargain. That's why savvy homemakers are using tuna in family menus several times a week.

Tuna Salad Italiana

1 package (8 ounces) macaroni bows, cooked according to package directions
1 small red onion, sliced and separated into rings
1 cup diagonally sliced celery
1 cup carrot flowers
3 cans (6½ or 7 ounces each) tuna in vegetable oil, drained and cut into chunks
1 cup mayonaise
¼ cup clear Italian dressing
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon Tabasco pepper sauce
Salad greens

Combine cooked macaroni, vegetables and tuna chunks; reserve. Combine next four ingredients. Pour over macaroni-tuna mixture; toss together lightly. Line salad bowl with greens; add macaroni-tuna mixture. 6 to 8 servings.

Carrot flowers: Cut 1 cup thin carrot slices. Form petals by cutting 5 small wedge-shaped notches around edge of each slice.

Area scouts tour Alaska with back packs

By MAUREEN MCDONALD
Enterprise Staff Writer

A group of Belleville area boy Scouts have been rediscovering the wilderness trail of Jack London's lore in Alaska.

Traveling by train boat and plane the boys in Troop No. 231 have learned the real meaning of wilderness survival.

Directors of the troop included Calvin Light, scout leader, Lee Hallet, assistant scout leader, David Howell, chaperone and James Wittoco, chaperone.

THE TROOP left Belleville on June 30, and proceeded on the Canadian National Railway to Prince Rupert, British Columbia. The boys got a first hand look at the Canadian Rockey mountains where Kurt and Jeff Greaves reported that snow still capped the mountains.

In Prince Rupert the boys caught eight large salmon, which gave them the only feast on their voyage.

The boys then boarded a steamship for Ketchitan, Alaska.

Aboard the ship, the Greaves boys learned the meaning of a dollar.

"FOOD IS really expensive, a little hamburger costed $1 on the boat." the boys wrote in a letter to their mother.

The Greaves live at 47224 North Shore Dr., Belleville.

But the hamburgers were less expensive than the dehydrated food the boys lived on for most of the trip.

Mrs. Greaves said a one meal supply of dehydrated food ran about $2.50, and the boys needed to pack enough food to last two weeks.

THE BOYS also packed a tent and cooking supplies in their back packs. The boys carried special mosquito repellant to fend off "mosquitoes so big they could carry you away, according to the boys.

In Alaska, the boys camped in the wilds of Ketchitan, the island of Sitka and the city of Jueau.

The boys also boarded a plane from Juneau where they were flown back to Belleville.

Surprising to most mothers was the fact that none of the boys reported homesickness during the trip, although one mother was ready to fly to Alaska to see her son, Mrs. Greaves said.

BUT THE BOYS were fortunate to have Calvin Light as a leader. After serving 37 years with the scouts he was awarded the Silver Beaver commendation for distinguished service.

Light also has led scouting expenditions to Hawaii.

The boys prepared for the $400 trip with a series of fund raising projects.

They sold flags, washed cars and sold fertilizer. The mothers' auxiliary held a salad luncheon and a "roaring twenties" dance to assist the venture.

The boys returned home Sunday weary but willing to tell anyone with a listening ear the story of their long adventure in the wilds of Alaska.

EXPERIENCED TRAVELERS—Displaying slightly used back packs, Troop 231, which meets at Trinity Episcopal Church, describe their two-week voyage to Alaska by train, boat and plane. Few boys mentioned homesickness while on the trip, although they complained of "mosquitoes so big they could carry you away."

Dog tags increase in cost

A new record in the number of 1973 dog licenses issued by Van Buren Township treasurers office has been reported.

Township Treasurer, Ralph E. Hedman announced that his office has issued a total of 1,625 dog licenses. This is an increase of 400 dog licenses when compared with the 1972 total.

The deadline for procuring 1973 dog licenses was June 14. All dog tags issued henceforth will cost the dog owner a flat $10. Prior to the deadline the fee for all dog licenses was $3.

Hedman also disclosed that the township's dog survey is continuing. Six civilians have been hired by the township to make the survey.

Dog owners who have failed to procure their dog tags are being referred to the township dog warden Bill Maynard for prosecution under the provisions of the township's dog ordinance.

Lottery winnings unclaimed

Lottery Commissioner Gus Harrison said today that 6,971 winning lottery tickets worth $174,275 from drawings last November and December have not yet been claimed.

A total of 42,647 tickets worth $1,066,175 have not been claimed through May 31, he said.

"All of these tickets still outstanding are valid for one year after the drawing date in which they won," Harrison said. "Time is running out for those who may still hold winning tickets from our earliest drawings."

Harrison said some winning tickets may have been lost or destroyed. Others may belong to winners who have not yet gotten around to taking them to a claim center for one reason or another. Still others may be in the hands of persons who do not know they have at least a $25 winner and a chance to be in a subsequent millionaire drawing.

The two winning numbers each week qualify for the $25 prize if the numbers appear in either box on tickets with that drawing date. For example, the winning numbers in the first lottery drawing on November 24 were: 130 and 544.

Harrison said the 42,647 unclaimed winners for drawings through May represent one-third of the number of claims needed for a millionaire drawing.

"By not submitting their claim, those with winning tickets forfeit not only the $25 prize, but their chance at the millionaire drawing," he said.

The fifth millionaire drawing will be held at 6:30 p.m., Aug. 2, at the Ionia Free Fair.

A detailed list of previous drawings and the number of unclaimed winners are:

Nov. 24, 130-544; Nov. 30, 850-070; Dec. 7, 478-592; Dec. 14, 792-633; Dec. 21, 516-724 and Dec. 28, 346-680.

Jan. 4, 049-837; Jan. 11, 250-570; Jan. 18, 434-157 and Jan. 25, 266-696.

CARROLL RIGHTER'S HOROSCOPE

Tomorrow's Forecast from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Change is possible if you face facts early and reconsider your plans from a more logical point of view. A prominent person you admire may disagree, but your attributes will be highly appreciated. Make plans for the days ahead.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Taking care of routine matters and talking out your problems with experts make this a rewarding day. Keep busy with routine duties. Show more devotion to loved one. Relax at home tonight.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Ways of achieving greater abundance will present themselves. Decide what must be done and then carry through. Someone more experienced in business matters can make your future more secure.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) The morning is ideal for evaluating your present status. Don't stop there, but get busy making proper changes. Evening is fine for social activities that bring excellent results.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Your future goals should be analyzed without outside influence. Once you decide on the right course, others will turn to you for help. Assist them before tackling new projects.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Let your magnetism go to work. Exciting new contacts could develop into meaningful friendships. Engage in new social activities but don't neglect old friends who have much in common with you.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Your career plans require attention this morning. Whatever you do must reflect common sense and logic. New equipment can increase your efficiency. Dine in an atmosphere of splendor.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Interesting persons give the right ideas for your future advancement. Good time to plan that trip you've been thinking about. Make sure household is running smoothly before making commitments.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) There are new ways to meet your responsibilities. Let your natural dynamism emerge. Show courtesy and kindness to loved one and things will change for the better. Be more cheerful.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Associates can suggest changes to make your current efforts more successful. Getting in tune with the needs of others can speed business and social progress. Take health treatments.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Be frank in discussing the work ahead of you with those involved. Cooperate with others for more harmonious results. Show your enthusiasm. Take necessary steps to improve appearance.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Spend your spare time pleasurably with those congenial people you like. A new project could be successful if you stress efficiency. Temper your emotions with logical decisions.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Discord at home can be resolved now if you express your willingness to make an effort. Be honest, but tactful. Avoid a person whose present situation could be detrimental to your welfare.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she is well aspected for agility of mind. This cleverness could lead to being overly talkative. Educational atmosphere should be as modern as possible to develop some of those fine ideas. Don't let early promise dissipate by neglecting to stress persistence of effort. Spiritual training and ethics should be taught early in life. Sports are a must here.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

August events spark trips

—For your— Entertainment

For "fair" minded Western Wayne County residents, Michigan offers some 50 county and regional fairs during the 31 days of August. Leading the pack is the Michigan State Fair, Aug. 23-Sept. 3 in Detroit, with an all-star program of entertainment.

Roberta Flack, Ann Murray, Joey Heatherton, Bill Cosby and Lola Falana are among the top favorites that will be on hand. In the area of equestrian entertainment, this year's State Fair will feature 23 free horse shows in the coliseum.

A listing of fairs and dates is available from the Michigan Tourist Council, Lansing, 48926.

Detroit's Ethnic Festival program for August leads off with the Ukrainian Festival, Aug. 3 through 5, followed by the Polish Festival, Aug. 10 through 12, Scandinavian Festival, Aug. 17 through 19, Armenian Festival, August 25 through 27 and the International Festival, Aug. 31 through Sept. 3.

Ethnic influences can also be enjoyed in other areas of the State. Bronson will hold their Polish Days Festival Aug. 2 through 4. In addition to traditional Polish foods and polkas, a mock Polish wedding, parade, entertaining competitions and other good time activities are scheduled.

Aug. 11 through 12 are the days of the annual Indian Pow Wow at Charlton Park, Hastings. Representatives of many tribes from many areas of the United States recreate their early heritage. Colorful dances, music, arts and crafts and Indian foods are among the attractions.

This year's Danish Festival at Greenville will be held Aug. 17 through 19. A Danish tavern. Danish brunch, Danish dancers and strolling bands, a fairy tale parade, antique and art show, amusements and Danish souvenirs are only a few of the features of this popular event.

The first half of Michigan's August calendar is sprinkled generously with art and artists. For openers, there's the Coast Guard Festival Crafts Fair, August 3 through 4. Aug. 3 through 5 Bear Mountain Resort at Grayling will hold its second annual Arts and Crafts Show and International Bazaar.

On Aug. 4, an Art Fair at Fremont, Aug. 4 through 5 the Waterfront Arts and Crafts Exhibit at Tawas City and the Portside Arts and Crafts Fair at East Jordan.

One of Michigan's most popular and widely known art assemblies, the Waterfront Art Fair at Charlevoix, is set for Aug. 11.

Artists and craftsmen of the Upper Peninsula show off their creations August 11-12 at Eagle Harbor. Aug. 12, a Clothesline Art Show at Dowagiac and an Art Fair at White Lake. The Spring Lake Arts and Crafts Festival comes around August 17 through 18 and Holland will hold their 4th Annual Outdoor Arts and Crafts Show Aug. 18.

As usual, several unique events add sparkle to the month's activities. On Aug. 3 through 12 the First Annual International Music Festival will be held at the Blue Lake Fine Art Camp, Muskegon. The week long festival will culminate in a grand finale concert on Saturday evening and will include a performance of massed international choirs.

No fire and brimstone, but there's sure to be a hot time in the town of Hell, Aug. 4. The occasion is Satan's Holiday Square Dance.

The power of "the good ole days" will huff 'n puff 'n sputter at the Early-Day Gas Engine and Tractor Show, Boot Hill Ranch, Jones, Aug. 4 through 5; the 18th Annual Live Steam Show at the fairgrounds in Caro, August 10 through 12; and the Antique Auto Show at Charlton Park, Hastings, Aug. 19.

Tawas City and East Tawas honor the tourist, Aug. 6 through 12 with their annual Tourist Festival.

Common Cause queries

Legislators respond

Three of four area state legislators took time to answer a Common Cause-Michigan questionnaire dealing with legislative secrecy, campaign financing, lobbying disclosure and conflict of interest.

The questionnaire, which was answered by State Senators William Faust D-13th District and John E. McCauley D-11th District along with State Rep. Gary Owen R-22nd District, queried legislative opinions concerning model bills to be proposed by Common Cause to Prevent abuse in the four areas of concern.

Only State. Rep. Edward E. Mahalak D-38th District did not bother to reply to the Common Cause opinion sampler.

ALL THREE LEGISLATORS agreed that they would require all state legislative committees to vote and meet in open session, but only Faust indicated he would favor following the same procedures for party caucuses.

Concerning campaign financing, all three legislators said they would favor full disclosure of expenditures and contributions before as well as after campaigns, and all three agreed on the prospect of limiting individual contributions.

But only Owen said he favored public financing of any election costs.

The three were unanimous in stating they favor full disclosure of all lobbying activities and expenditures to influence both the legislative and executive branches of government; they would favor lobbying reports filed throughout the legislative session; and they would favor having all employers of lobbyists register with the state.

LIKEWISE, the three were unanimous in agreeing there should be full annual public disclosure of income, financial holdings, and interests by both legislative and executive branch officials. The three also indicated they favored voluntarily publicly disclosing financial status and sources of income and also agreed they will support the establishment of an independent commission charged with enforcing ethics and lobby legislation.

All three indicated they would either develop or co-sponsor legislation in any of the four main areas of concern.

The survey was sent to all area legislators in early 1973.

Seventy per cent of all state legislators responded to the questionnaires, but half of the respondents did not answer all the questions.

Council candidate to upgrade image of Romulus citizens

Running on a record based on years of community service, Beverly McAnnally, an independent candidate for city council, pledged to continue her concern and accelerate her efforts in behalf of the people of Romulus.

"For the past 10 years, I have concentrated my professional and volunteer efforts to upgrade the image and esteem of the people of the community," Mrs. McAnally said.

"Working together with school and governmental units, I have made it my goal to secure needed services through the active participation and leadership of concerned residents," she added.

"THE PRESCHOOL nursery enrollment has increased every year: the continuing education program has thrived: our dental care project has continued and been duplicated as a model of community self-help," the candidate said.

"Of equal improtance, I have seen the people of this community become involved in solving problems and carrying through on projects utilizing their individual talents and abilities," she added. They have done it with style and pride because they believed in what they were doing.

"I know it is a sound concept that people want to be proud of their city; that they have aptitudes to share and that they have a willingness to share them."

"Further, I believe that our governmental units badly need their input and have a responsibility to encourage their participation.

Council candidate says full-time fire station needed

Romulus City Council candidate John M. Kruszko has proposed that Romulus maintain "at least one full-time fire station with all other stations being kept as volunteer stations to back up."

Kruszko said he came upon the idea, "after watching a Taylor City Fire Rescue Unit cross the city of Romulus to help at a traffic accident at Middlebelt 100 feet south of Ecorse Road."

The candidate said he would propose that the full time station have at least one engine and one rescue unit on duty at all times. The rescue unit crew would be a doctor and a fire fighter skilled in emergency first aid.

"The funds needed for this one full time fire station could come from a one or two mill tax increase, or with luck, a federal grant," Kruszko said. "The grant could cover from a quarter to three-quarters of the money needed to start this program."

Kruszko did not give any cost details on his proposal.

Continuing Romulus election coverage

Bauman says rec is desperate need

Barry Baumann, 22, a candidate for the Romulus City Council, said he is deeply concerned about the city's future because "many kids are growing up here now, and we have a lot to accomplish."

"Recreation is a desperate need," Baumann said, "but let us use our minds, not our emotions in discussing this. We must do what is necessary, but we must keep in mind what resources we have."

"People are starting to get involved and care about Romulus as a community," he said. There are some going around today calling Romulus a slum. I don't deny we have several areas that problems exist, but by no means is Romulus a slum.

"We are a young community, and the type of foundation we build today must last for tomorrow.

"We need increased police protection, included with increased parental responsibility; we need more and better recreational programs, with more facilities; we must build a better fire department with better equipment so we do not have petty political hassels regarding ambulance service to Romulus citizens; we need road improvement, not only increased upkeep of the dirt roads, but improvement designed to handle growth; we need to build "community pride."

COLLISION COURSE — This three-point landing by Romulus Hardware's Ed Labato ended in an out as Huron Valley's backstop Mike Csaszar stood his ground and made the tag. Huron, the defending Romulus Slo-Pitch champ, polished off their rivals 6-2 to come within reach of a third consecutive championship.

Bouncing back from its first and only loss of the season, Huron Valley Steel went on a rampage last week.

Huron Valley Steel moved a step closer to another Romulus Slo-Pitch League title last week as the defending champs swept past Romulus Welding 10 to 0 Tuesday and Romulus Hardware fell 6 to 2 Thursday.

Tuesday's victory was not without its cost to Huron as Alex Csaszar was injured sliding into second base and will be out of action for at least two weeks.

Huron pounded Welding with 19 hits with Darwin Wessels, Walt Goeckel and Rich Spearman each collecting three.

Greg Johnson, Paul Tryon, Lonnie Gillum and Ron Kampsen contributed a pair each while Wessels, Goeckel, Spearman and Gillum all connectd for the circuit.

Wessels worked on the hill and held Welding to three hits in gaining the shutout win.

Wessels pitched again on Thursday picking up his second win of the season. Rick Spearman hit the game's only homer.

CARPENTRY by Woodcraft moved into second place behind Huron, dumping Beck-Howell Carpets 21 to 17 Tuesday. Carpentry's 23 hits and the collapse of Beck-Howell's defense knocked the carpetmen out of the "A" League title chase.

Beck-Howell had 22 hits in the contest, but was guilty of 8 errors. Norm Nickelson and Penza West had four hits for Carpentry while Bill Reiber and Phil Bailey collected four for Beck-Howell.

Nickelson belted a three run homer for Carpentry. Norm McLenon was the winning pitcher while Fred Eberline took the loss.

EARL CHAMPAGNE'S three run homer helped Carpentry avert an upset Thursday as it squeezed out a 6 to 5 win over Baum's Funeral Home. Baum's scored five thimes in the third inning featured by Mike Pratt's two run homer.

Bob Zygai held Romulus Press Repair to four hits to pitch Beck-Howell to a 12 to 2 win and end the Carpetmen's two game losing streak. Hugh Miller and Ken Mientkiewicz collected three hits a piece to lead Beck-Howell's 16-hit attack while Bill Reiber had a two run homer and a double.

Burr Good and John Pipkin lifted sacrifice fly's to account for Press Repair's two runs.

Romulus Hardware scored 25 runs on 19 hits to rout Baum's Funeral Hmoe 25 to 3 Tuesday. Ed Labato and Ken Laskaska homered for Hardware.

POLKA DOT Party Store remained a game and a half in front of second place Morgan in class "B" by sweeping two games. Tuesday, Polka Dot collected 14 hits in a 12 to 2 romp over Romulus City Drugs.

Rich Rakotz and Jack Slater had three RBI's for Polka Dot while Junior Rakotz had the game's only homer.

Ralph Rakotz held the druggists to seven hits each while winning hurler Chuck Hazen had two hits to lead Polka Dot's 15 hit assault.

Morgan Manor remained within striking distance with a pair of easy wins, bombing National Car Rental 15 to 1 Tuesday and Walter's Bar 13 to 3 on Thursday. Wilson Boone, Lou Baker, Lou Sucharski and Duke Rock all collected three hits to lead Morgan's 19 hit attack against Walter's.

Boone, Pete Molnar and Ross Holm had home runs.

Larry Mach and Ted Dyer homered Tuesday to lead Walter's Bar to a 19 to 3 win over Landing Strip Lounge.

Cherry Hill cage star stays loyal

By TOM MOORADIAN

The rumor mill was working overtime last night when it turned out a story that one of the parochial high schools in Detroit had wooed into its basketball flock Cherry Hill's outstanding junior center, Bob Fowler.

Fowler, who last year burned up the Tri-River Conference, leading the league in scoring and rebounding, has been seen scrimmaging with a Detroit Catholic High School.

BOB FOWLER

Could it be that Fowler knows something about the pending busing legislation that we don't? Anyway, prep cage fans quickly concluded that the 6-foot-5½ pivotman had turned in his Spartan stripes for others.

"That's not so," said Dick McNally, Cherry Hill's head basketball coach. "There has been some rumors floating around and it's understandable because the boy has been playing with the parochial team.

"However, Bob has informed me that he will be loyal to Cherry Hill and that he will be returning," McNally said, "Bob also attends our summer sessions when he's not working.

"We all want the best for him," continued McNally, "and, I feel the air should be cleared about the rumors."

CHERRY HILL AND McNALLY have a good shot at the Tri-River Conference basketball championship this year with Fowler who, as a sophomore, was an unanimous all-league choice and also an All-Area selection.

Most of the teams had problems stopping Bob last year when he finished up with the league's scoring title and the top rebounder.

This year, barring injury, Fowler should be even greater. With this 16-year-old cager the Spartans would win it all; without him, well, McNally will have a lot of headaches in December.

But, it's easily understandable why a young, potential "super-star" would want to jump to the parochial league. After all, parochial league coachs can promise him everything, even heaven.

TWO OF FOWLER'S teammates - Joe Cichon and Rick McNally, the coach's son, - will be heading for Albion College in the fall. Both Cichon and McNally were starters on last year's team. Both boys were recipients of scholarships.

AND HERE'S A letter from Dil Clack, who is the Garden City Class A Baseball League director.

Dear Mr. Mooradian,

Iwould like to take this opportunity to express our thanks to The Daily Eagle and the Garden City Parks and Recreation Department for the major roles they have played in making our baseball league a sucess.

Without the help of Ray Wiacek, parks and recreation department, our league could not have existed. He alloted us time on the diamonds and helped in countless other ways.

And the Eagle, by providing us coverage through yours and Dale Gowing's writing, helped to publicize our games. We have found your reporting to be objective and enjoyable.

Thank you again.

Truly,
Dil Clack

THIS ONE GOT AWAY — While Romulus Hardware third baseman Chuck Molner hustles to recover the ball, Huron Valley Steel's Paul Tryon kicks up the dirt as he safely slides into third base. Tryon eventually scored one of the six runs that gave the defending champ a key victory en route to the Class A title.

Romulus names coaches

Romulus' board of education didn't search far or long for successors to head basketball Coach Dave Court and head football Coach Bill Hardy.

The board found its men right in its "own back yard." It chose Jim Stallings, a six year veteran wrestling coach at the high school, and Jesse Meriweather, assistant cage coach, for the two jobs.

Stallings, 29, replaces Hardy who handled the football team last year and in that year amassed a 5-3-1 won-lost-tied record. Though the new head coach didn't serve on Hardy's staff, Stallings was a member of former grid Coach George Pratt's staff.

"I'M VERY pleased to get this opportunity to coach football," said Stallings, who is an ex-Romulus High grid star who made good on the collegiate gridiron at Hillsdale where he lettered four years as a center and defensive tackle.

It's going to be a challenge, but most of the kids who played football last year also wrestled on my team, so we know one another pretty well. But it will be different because the players will have to get to know me as the football coach.

"I expect to build a winning team here," Stallings emphasized.

MERIWEATHER, who is 34, served as Court's assistant coach for the past three years and he'll be hard-pressed to repeat the 23-2 over-all mark that the former coach compiled last season.

"I'm hoping to keep up the winning tradition in basketball that Court and the others who preceeded him established," said Meriweather who also is the high school's head track coach.

Meriweather prepped at Elson High School in Michigan City, Indiana where he earned varsity stripes three years. He went on to star on Western Michigan University's cage teams.

"We will probably be running more than Court's teams did in the past," said Meriweather who said that it would be one of the changes he would install this fall.

Married to Diane, the Meriweather's make their home in Romulus.

Giants rip Athletics

The Giants and the Athletics locked horns for the Van Buren Little League Baseball championship last week and the Giants emerged with a 14-7 victory and the title.

Behind an excellent pitching performance by winning hurler Tom Hall, the Giants, who had earlier sewed up the National League title, had no problem with their counterparts of the American League.

Hall, who aided his own cause with two hits, was given ample hitting support by Bob Lemasters, Craig Shoup, Doug Burke, and Brian McClinton each of whom drilled two hits.

Meanwhile, Matthew Smith, the Athletics' slugger, had the satisfaction of being the only player to belt a home run. Jerry Anderson also accounted for a pair of RBI's while Smith, Jackie Callahan and Eric Foster each had two or more hits.

Foster was tagged with the loss. He gave up RBI hits to Hall, Shoup, Doug Burke, Brian McClinton and Mark Hammond.

ANN ARBOR — Paul Seymour, Michiglan's All-American tackle from Berkley, Mich., has been named to the College All-Star football team that will play the Super Bowl champion Miami Dolphins in Chicago.

Blue Boar needs one win

With just a week to go in the Belleville Softball League race, Blue Boar Inn needs one more victory or a loss by second-place Belleville Teachers to sew up the championship.

Blue Boar, Belleville Teachers, PLAV and Belleville JayCees have all clinched playoff berths, although second place remains in doubt as yet, since only a half-game separates Teachers and PLAV.

In last week's action:

Blue Boar Inn bounced Teachers, 8-5, and Belleville Moose, 9-2; Moose shut out Auto Air Cargo; 9-0; PLAV whipped State Police, 9-0, and Belleville Mobile Homes, 8-3; JayCees beat Mobile Homes, 8-6, and State Police, 11-2, and Teachers scolded Auto Air Cargo, 9-2.

Top cyclist to ride at Northville

One of the state's most successful young professional motorcycle riders will captain Michigan's six-man team in a pair of special challenge races in the climax of the Northville Downs racing program the night of Saturday, August 11.

This is 22-year-old Rex Beauchamp of Milford, who ranked fourth in American Motorcycle Association national standings in 1973. This is the third year the factory - sponsored Beauchamp (Harley - Davidson) has worn the coveted expert label and on the national circuit he's looked upon as a likely candidate for the No. 1 spot.

THE MICHIGAN speedsters teamed with Beauchamp against a six-man Ohio contingent include Ted Newton of Pontiac, Corky Keener of Goodrich, Mike Johnson and Bert Cummings, both of Flint and Jerry Sulek of Detroit. All hold AMA ratings as experts except Sulek of Detroit, who has yet to accumulate enough competitive points to emerge from the AMA junior class.

The Michigan and Ohio teams will meet in two 10-lap races to scored on a point basis and a separate purse guaranteed at $2,400 will be split among the winners. Losing team members will get only appearance money.

The complete Northville Downs card will include at least 15 AMA-sanctioned professional events in the expert, junior and novice divisions with a total purse of $3,500 on top of the team money. From 150 to 200 of the top riders in the nation are expected to compete.

Time trials will begin at 5:45 p.m. and the first racing attraction is scheduled for 7 p.m. Tickets are $4 in advance and $5 at the gate. - Staton Lorenz, John Carlo and Gerald Stone head the local sponsoring corporation.

Tennis is on up-swing

By WILL GRIMSLEY

NEW YORK (AP) — The current tennis boom has reached such proportions that devotees don't just have to queue up for courts-now they're waiting in line to buy rackets, balls and clothes.

"We cannot make rackets and balls fast enough," added Paul MacDonald, head of the sporting goods division of international Dunlop. "Tennis business is growng at the rate of 25 to 40 per cent a year."

Another manufacturing spokesman figured the tennis market at $300 million and said it was far outstripping golf in rate of growth although still not up to the fairway sport in overall sales.

IN THE LAST five years tennis has become the fashionable "in" sport, triggering not only heavy demands for playing equipment and clothing but setting off an explosion of indoor and outdoor clubs.

These facilities range from balloon-type structures which cover two courts to swank suburban and mid-town clubs offering fashionable lounges, swimming pools and sauna baths.

Membership in some of these clubs costs from $2,000 to $5,000 a year. At some semi-private courts, players pay $10 an hour for a court and $35 an hour for professional lessons.

There are reported to be 15 million tennis players in the United States today compared with around 10 million golfers.

Jack Nicklaus played two hours of tennis after winning the Tournament of Champions at LaCosta in California earlier this year. Bobby Fischer tuned up for his world chess match against Boris Spassky by playing tennis and found similar training procedures.

Democratization of the game probably is as much responsible as anything for the current tennis boom. For decades, tennis was a snobbish sport confined largely to the country clubs. Its rules were rigid. All players had to wear white. Involved scoring dated back to the Middle Age monks. Amateurs had to be pure. It was a felony to sneeze during play.

NOW THE SPORT has been usurped by the masses. The white rule is out. Scoring has been modified. They've dropped both the pro and color lines. Colors now are accepted, even in the big tournaments.

"It's been a long time coming, but people finally are realizing what a great game tennis is," said William F. Talbert, former Davis Cup captain, director of the U.S. Open Championships and vice-president of a Wall Street bank note company.

"It is definitely the sport of the Seventies. It is moderately inexpensive. It can be a family game. It doesn't require a team of players as do football and baseball nor does it blow a full day as golf. You can get all the exercise you need and have a lot of fun in an hour."

By TOM MOORADIAN

Billy Martin's "methuselahs" are imposters.

For, there are a group of guys, including one who is 80-years-young, who are much more deserving of that title than the present Detroit Tigers.

"We're the real oldtimers," said George Luerchen, ex-Detroit Tiger (circa 1942) ball player, who is whipping up support for the annual Tiger Oldtimers' Game.

"We have one player, Elmer Kahl, who is 84-years-old and he plays the infield for us," Lerchen contends.

LERCHEN, who is doing the PR (public relations) work for the game, which will be played on Saturday, Aug. 4 at 11:30 a.m. in the Garden City Muncipal Park, is trying to complete his lineup for the charity game.

In the past such Tiger heroes as Detroit councilman Billy Rogell, pitcher Hal Newhouser, Charlie Gehringer, Dizzy Trout, and many others have taken part in the games which were staged on Belle Isle.

"We have been trying to round up as many of the Tiger oldtimers we can," continued Lerchen, "and though we have a lot of them in flock, we're hoping if there are any more who wish to play that they would contact me." (Lerchen can be reached by telephoning 261-0138).

The Detroit Oldtimers Baseball Players Association, which stages the games, decided to move the games from its traditional island site to the suburban communities.

"We want this game to be played in different communities each year," related Lerchen, "because we feel the fans and the young players who didn't have an opportunity to get to the island previously also should benefit from seeing these former diamond heroes play."

LERCHEN BROKE into the Tiger system in 1942 but his professional baseball career was interrupted by World War II when he, as many other athletes, were drafted into the armed services.

After the war he came back to the Tigers and remained a member of the organization for 12 years. He also played for Cincinati and St. Louis.

"You should see some of these oldtimers, they really can play ball," Lerchen said, "we play six or seven innings, then break for a picnic."

And that's when the autograph hounds zero in on the former stars.

"We love it. It's a lot of fun. We give pointers to the kids and everyone comes away with something."

And let's not forget the charities. They are also the winners.

Now if we can only get Billy Martin out here to manage this team. Forget it. He's having enough problems these days.

Economic growth cited

Premier honors Romulus firm

A Romulus manufacturing company was recently named beneficiary of the coveted "European award - the Gold Mercury" for outstanding achievements in productivity and European economic cooperation.

Premier Sig. Andreotti of Italy presented the Kerr Manufacturing Company and Kerr-Europe of Naples, Italy with the award.

The award was also received by the King of Belgium, H. M. Baudouin. In 1972, the award was presented to the President of France, Georges Pompidou.

Kerr was the first dental company to ever receive this award in Europe and was one of four companies selected. Other U.S. companies included: Caterpillar in Peoria, Illinois - Champion Spark Plug Co. in Toledo, Ohio - and the Cessna Aircraft Company of Wichita, Kan.

The European Award is presented, annually, in Rome to those responsible for increasing production and economic collaboration, at a formal ceremony, in the presence of high political, civil and military authorities.

In addition, each year the Award is presented to those companies, organizations and persons that have given a special impetus to the European and to the world's economy.

Kerr Manufacturing Company is a division of the Sybron Corporation of Rochester, New York and is one of the World's leading manufacturers of dental products in the areas of filling materials, preventive dentistry products, impression materials and products used by dental laboratories.

Home offices of Kerr are located in Romulus, Michigan with other plants in Oakland, California and Toronto, Canada.

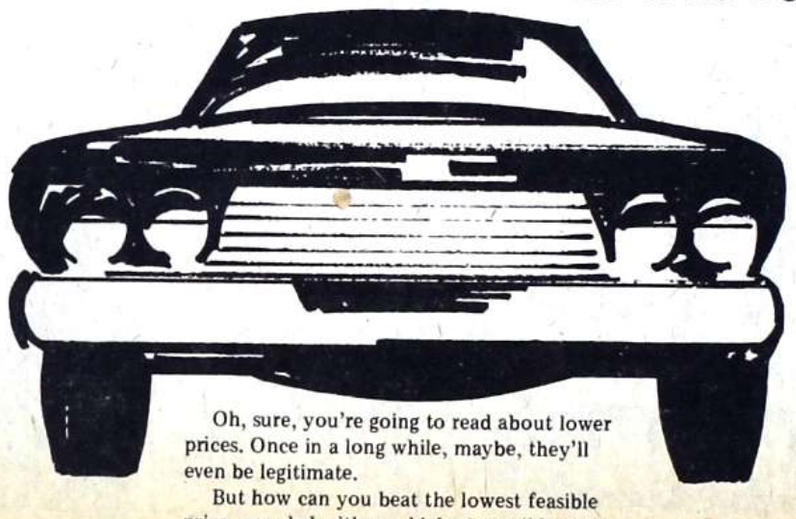
Atchinson Ford never met a deal he couldn't beat.



Oh, sure, you're going to read about lower prices. Once in a long while, maybe, they'll even be legitimate.

But how can you beat the lowest feasible price, coupled with our highest possible trade allowance? When you also consider this: we deliver a car in flawless condition, with every pre-delivery function performed above and beyond factory instructions, and guaranteed above and beyond the factory warranty. In effect you get a free mechanic for one full year.

The price of a new car doesn't all go into the bill of sale. Unless you buy from us.

It's about time a car dealer delivered more than just a car.*

DATSUN SAVES
About a gallon of gasoline a day

With the demand for fuel rising faster than the supply, here's one way to help ease our energy crisis. According to the latest U.S. Bureau of Highways figures, the national average for gas mileage is about 13.5 miles per gallon. The new Datsun 1200 gets around 30 miles per gallon or over twice the national average. The average car in the U.S. is driven just over 10,000 miles a year, so you can save about a gallon of gas every day by driving a 1200. With gasoline prices going up, it's a considerable saving of another important resource: your money. Drive a Datsun . . . then decide.

WILLOW RUN MOBILE HOMES
Michigan's No. 1 Holly Park Dealer
FACT SHEET
Like the mobile home industry itself, financing of mobile homes has changed through the years. Many mobile home purchasers finance the home in much the same way as an automobile. The mobile home dealer arranges the financing through a bank or finance company. Minimum down payments are required, and financing can be arranged for as long as 10 years in some cases, but 7 years is the most common.

Wayne's downtown is bathed in a phosphoric glow at night as the new street lamps glow like captured fireflies.--Daily Eagle photo By Dean Lyons.

Citizens, officials are proud

Wayne goes through rapid growth period

City officials didn't think they'd ever see the light of day in Wayne development 20 years ago, said City Engineer Richard Gillespie.

But 20 years later, they can point with pride to the quickly progressing downtown area and urban renewal project as well as some growth in the industrial park.

"There is very little major development that could actually take place now in Wayne," Gillespie said.

THE CITY has gone through a period of rapid growth in the recent past, he said, so there is little chance that any big changes will take place."

But while the city already is heavily developed — that doesn't mean that changes won't be taking place.

Gillespie said the industrial areas around the city will be the sites for growth in the near future.

"I think you'll see a lot of remodeling in the downtown area — kind of a general facelift," he said. "But as for a lot of major building and rebuilding — I don't think so."

GILLESPIE called the industrial potential in Wayne a "sleeping giant."

He predicted that in the near future there would be a motel constructed downtown, several new stores, a restaurant and a major department store.

Wayne has little empty room for residential growth, but the trend is "up" in housing, Gillespie said. Plans are in the making for a new set of condominiums as well as the nearly-completed high rise on Michigan Avenue and Second Street.

The development that Gillespie is predicting is in addition to seven large projects that recently were announced in the city.

THERE WAS a "groundbreaking spectacular" held early in July where city officials broke ground for seven new developments.

City officials broke ground for $5 million worth of new construction.

Tramping from location to location dragging a shovel, Mayor Patrick Norton and council members joined individual company representatives to take that first shovelful of dirt for five new developments.

More than 800 people turned out for the celebration after the groundbreaking to drink the free beer, eat the free ice cream and listen to the Wayne High School Band play while they waited for the officials to turn on the downtown lights for the first time. And they really worked.

SEALED FOR POSTERITY — The new First Congregational Church cornerstone setting last month relates to a story dating back to the Civil War - when the site of the new church once served as a recruiting station for the Union Army. Making sure the cornerstone is set perfect are Church Moderator Murray Arthur, left, and the Rev. Earven A. Anderson, church pastor. The new church replaces the old Civil War structure, which was destroyed in the blaze three years ago.

NEW EXTENDED-CARE FOR THE AGED — Lexington House, a long-term care facility for the elderly, was included on the groundbreaking roster at the city's recent groundbreaking spectacular. Here's a representative from Lexington House is shown with Mayor Patrick Norton (center) and Councilman Matthew Tinkham (right).

Departments are organized to serve citizens

Activities in Wayne's city departments are aimed toward serving the citizens and taxpayers that support them, the heads of police, fire, building, maintenance and other services say.

The fire department, located on Wayne Road near Michigan Avenue, answered 918 calls last year without a single fire death.

Children were the single largest cause of those fires, firemen said and the department is setting out to do something about it. Firemen have become active in the junior fire marshall program, going from school to school to stress fire safety in lectures.

EACH SHIFT is staffed daily with a lieutenant, a sergeant and four fire fighters.

Wayne's Police Department consisting of 41 officers divided into the uniform bureau, the traffic bureau and the detective bureau - gives Wayne residents two policemen per 1,000 residents.

Education is a big priority in the department, with two officers working who have completed the Federal Bureau of Investigation's Training Academy and many other officers who are working on specialized training courses.

'Firemen are active in school programs stressing fire safety.'

Wayne is the coordinating agency for the four-city Saturation Patrol, a unit that specializes in combating crime against propery including automobile theft.

WAYNE APPLIED for the federal funds to operate the patrol. The patrol is staffed by officers from Wayne, Garden City, Westland and Inkster.

The overseers for all the other departments - city hall, is located on Sims Avenue near Wayne Road. City Manager Patrick Cullen conducts business there along with the city assessor, the city engineer, building department employes and the city clerk's staff.

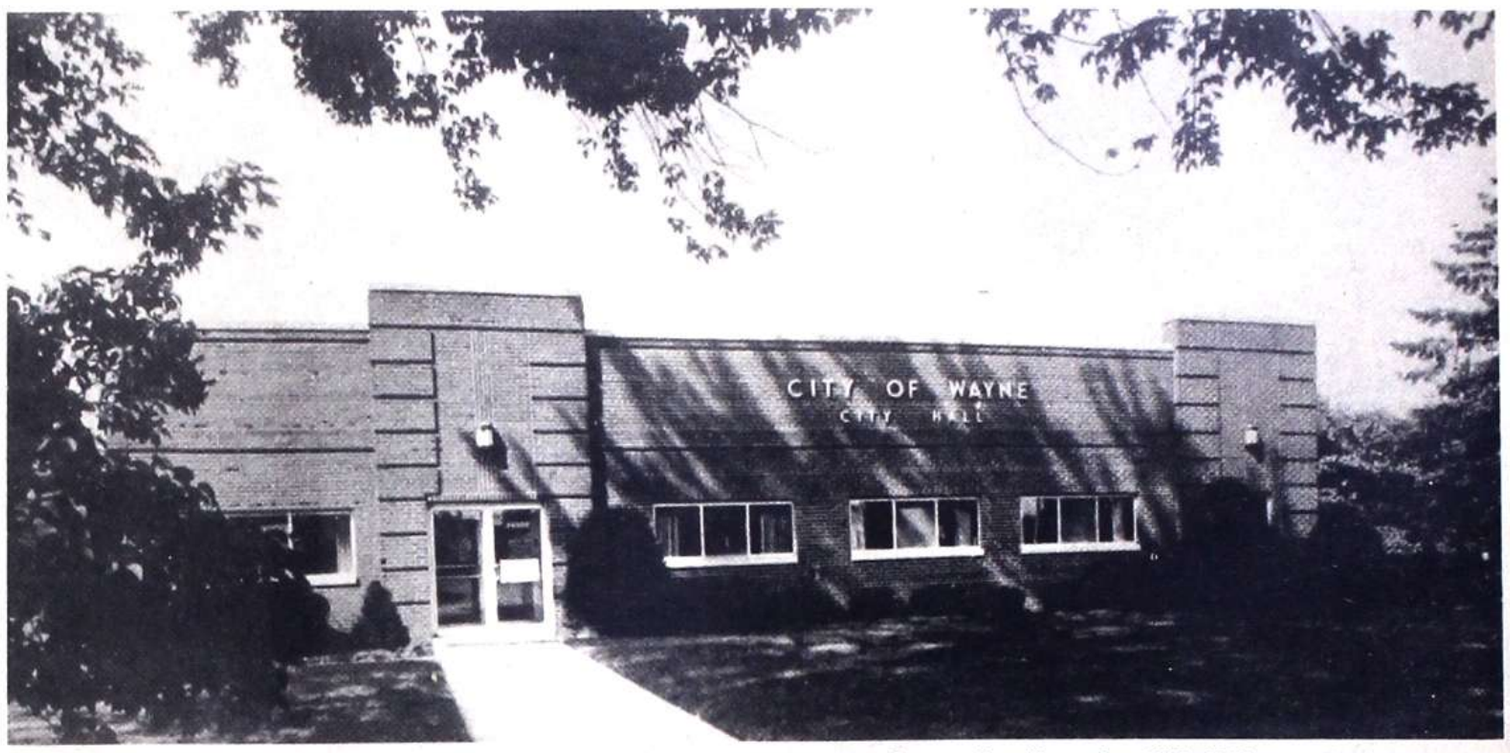
The city clerk's staff handles elections in adition to other city business. The building department oversees new construction in the city and the city assessor keeps track of improvements for tax purposes among other tax-related duties.

The city manager oversees the police and fire departments, along with the Wayne Department of Public Works, acting as liason between the city departments and the council.

WAYNE HAS had a council-manager form of government since 1947.

The Wayne Parks and Recreation Department has been busy in the recent past making recreation time more fun for Wayne residents and visitors.

They have developed city parks for baseball and other recreational sports and built the Attwood community swimming pool. But their crowning achievement along with others still is confined to a sign at the Attwood Park site announcing that the city's $2 million recreation complex will be built.



CITY NERVE CENTER — Wayne's City Hall is home for employes in the building department, the city clerk's office, the city manager the city assessor and many other city services. With all this centralization, a citizen has only one place to go with a problem. It is located at 34808 Sims Street.

DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC WORKS — Workers in the Wayne DPW take care of myriad duties in the city. They "solve" street and sewer problems, and just about any other problems with the city's streets, sewers and lights.

The complex will include an indoor ice arena, handball courts, large meeting rooms for community groups and a pistol range.

AT THE SAME time, government funds have been added to local funds and private grants to build picnic groves, lighted tennis courts, a pavilion, a sledding hill, a baseball field and a nature center. It is to be completed late in 1973.

Public works employes in Wayne pick up more than eight miles of garbage cans full of rubbish during a normal day.

The department of public works employes are responsibile for all streets, water and sewer matters, cemetery work and waste removal programs.

The department operates its own garage and maintains 80 pieces of equipment essential to the city's operation. In their 2-acre storage area the city includes a 500-ton salt bin and a metal storage building.

THE D P W employes are charged with maintaining 72.49 miles of streets in the city.

The library located on Wayne Road and Sims Avenue is financed on a half-and-half basis by the Wayne and Westland. The library is operated by the Wayne County Library System, and residents from both cities use the facility.

Residents in Wayne who become ill and injured have access to 350-bed Annapolis Hospital located at Annapolis and Venoy Road. The facility is operated by the Peoples Community Hospital Authority.

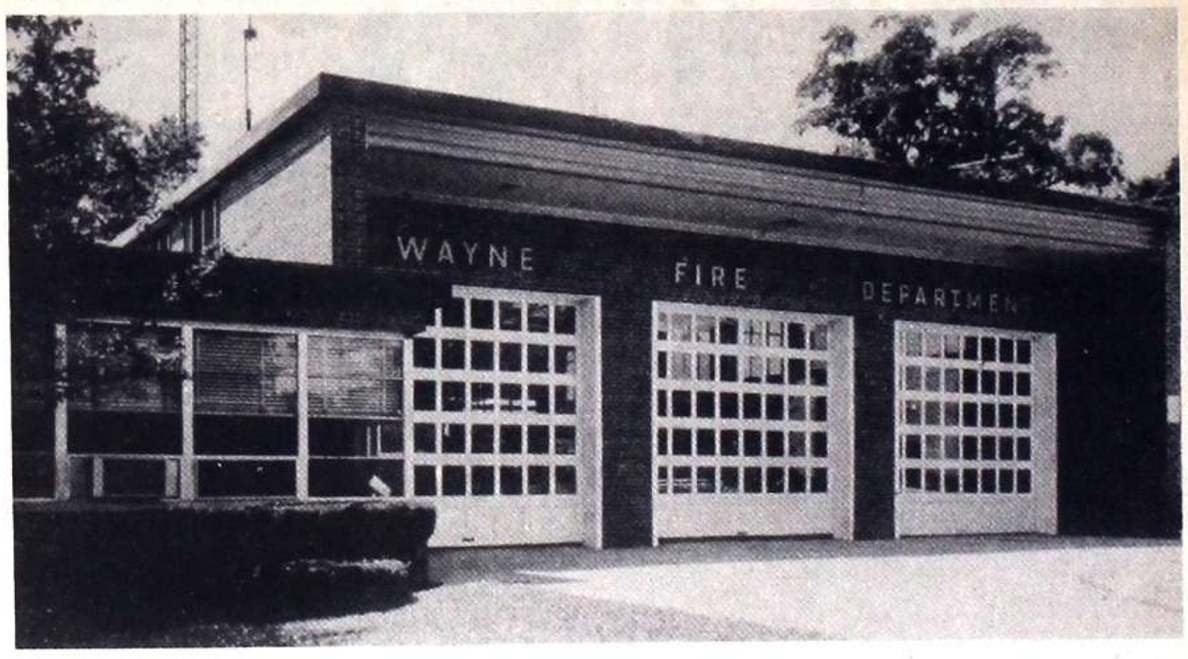
The Wayne-Westland Community School District has an enrollment of 22,826 students. The district includes Wayne, much of Westland, and section of Inkster. Two high schools, five junior high schools, 25 elementary schools and an administration building serve the students.

THE SCHOOL system employs 2,000 persons.

Wayne taxpayers pay approximately $1,051 per person pupil per year for education.

IN CASE OF EMERGENCY — The prowling blue cars that Wayne residents see day and night always return here to the Wayne Police Station (above). Located next to the city hall on Sims in Wayne, detective bureau offices and drivers license services are handled here as well as routine police work. Two rescue vans and their operators plus three fire trucks and the men who go with them stand waiting in Wayne's Fire Station at 3300 S. Wayne in case trouble strikes. All it takes is a telephone call to dispatch the trained men and efficient machines.

RECREATION FUN AND READING — Wayne's Recreation Programs from knitting to baseball are organized and planned by the staff that calls this building "home." The building is located on Wayne Road behind the Wayne-Westland library. Wayne and Westland both join with Wayne County to help support the Wayne-Westland library. Residents from both communities use the facility.



Wayne Chamber of Commerce benefits city with its activities

Wayne Chamber of Commerce members — the businessmen of the city — are looking out for each other and themselves as they look toward the welfare of the city in their activities.

The office at 35816 West Michigan is manned by Executive Secretary Mrs. Lela Garr.

The chamber now boasts 229 members after a growth spurt this spring.

Chamber members meet once a month at the Big Boy Restaurant in Wayne to hear speakers and discuss chamber business.

John Demmer, owner of Spitler-Demmer Ford in Wayne is president of the executive board; James Guilbault, vice-president of the Wayne Bank is first vice-president; Wendell Mason, assistant manager of the Consumers Power Company is the second vice-president and James Lents, director of the Lents Funeral Home is treasurer.

GETTING THE HEADS TOGETHER — Wayne businessmen have to keep an "ear to the ground" to learn of new developments in the city. To do this they formed the Wayne Chamber of Commerce to help promote local business.

THE DAILY EAGLE FESTIVAL SECTION

• Getting Together •

35540 W. Michigan Ave., Wayne, Mich. 48184 | July 24 to July 29, 1973 | 2 Sections, 24 Pages

THRILLS ON WHEELS—When the finalists race in this years soap box derby race down the hill at Sims and Second, starting at 10 a.m. Sunday, several young "females" may be at the starting line...as drivers.

Wayne promises 'best festival ever'

After months of planning, members of Wayne's Summer Festival Committee are ready to unveil "the biggest festival celebration ever held in our community."

And the selected theme for this week's summer festival celebration tells the story: It's "Getting Together."

The celebration officially opens with the Miss Summer Festival Queen contest, slated from 8 p.m. July 24 at Wayne Memorial High School Auditorium.

AND FOR the children, Wednesday's program offers a cartoon carnival starting at 2 p.m. at Benjamin Franklin Junior High School... at 7:30 p.m. a 10-cents ginger ale ice cream social gets underway in the city's Town Square.

Of course, the big event of the day, will kick-off at 6 p.m. with the colorful summer festival parade...a parade sparkling with every imaginable unit and float.

Thursday's events include mini-carnival rides, a softball tournament and a "battle of the bands" starting at 7 p.m.

An art exhibit, a road rally and tours of the city's historical museum are some of Friday's and Saturday's highlights. A western ox-roast will take place from noon to 5 p.m. Saturday by the recreation center.

OTHER SATURDAY specials include a bike race and a country hoedown, and the annual soap box derby qualification race starting at 7 p.m. at the hill at Sims and Second.

The soap box finals will be run at 10 a.m. Sunday...and for those who enjoy the taste of pancakes and steaming hot syrup - plan to be at the recreation center for breakfast.

Sunday's activities includes open houses at the city's police and fire stations...and swimathon at Attwood pool.

The men and women who planned this week's community spirited "Summer Festival" are Tom Dobrowolski, chairman; Tim Rourke, co-chairman; Donna Rourke, secretary, and Pam Dobrowolski, treasurer.

"Getting Together" is the theme and based on the fun-filled week on tap...Wayne residents and citizens from their neighboring communities will be provided every opportunity to take part in the city's best-planned "Summer Festival."

WAYNE QUEEN CANDIDATES—One of these lovely young ladies will be "Miss Wayne 1973" and reign over the Wayne Summer Festival slated for July 24 through July 29. Miss Wayne Festival contenders are (clockwise from front) Noreen Farnham, Sandi Kull, Karen Larson, Becky Pompilius and Cheryl Klopshenske.

Sidewalk sale features more bargains this year

If you took part in last year's "Sidewalk Sales" in Wayne, then you know it's a shoppers' special for bargain hunters.

And this year's "Sidewalk Sale" promises to be "bigger" than any previous year, said Ronald Nothnagel, chairman of the Retail Merchants Committee.

Unheard of prices, some at below cost, will be offered to bargain-hunting shoppers. And the three-day sale will offer items for every member of the family.

SPONSORED by the Wayne Chamber of Commerce, the sales special is set for July 26 and continue "right on" through July 28.

The "Sidewalk Sale," held in conjunction with the city's annual summer festival will be highlighted with a daily "treasure chest" drawing—a drawing which offers top prizes.

And on the closing day of the sale special, the "big drawing" will be held—offering five prizes, which include a camper trailer, color television set, stereo am-fm radio unit, a portable radio with an eight band, and a regular portable radio.

Nothnagel said the "Sidewalk Sales" will be held from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Thursday and Friday, while Saturday's specials will be going from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m.

HE STRESSED that the support of local merchants makes it possible for the business community "to better serve the needs of Wayne."

At the same time, Wayne Chamber of Commerce President John Demmer urged citizens of "our neighboring communities to come over during the sidewalk sales-summer festival to shop and enjoy themselves."

"If you're looking for some real bargains and a chance to take in some of our community's festival activities, plan to be in Wayne all week," Nothnagel said.

On the inside

The yesteryear days of Wayne come to life with pictures of old-time scenes on Page 3, while on Page 11 history buffs will get a glimpse of a few items of heritage being preserved at Wayne Historical Museum.

Wayne's rapid growth period is pictorialized ...with a story on the future of Wayne's "Rebirth" as a thriving segment of Western Wayne County. See story and photos on Page 13.

The seldom recognized men and women who perform their daily tasks of public service is focused on Page 21 with a wide-angle view of the city.

Looking for a summer bargain...if so, don't miss this week's 'Sidewalk Sales' in Wayne

Exhibits on display

The early founders in Wayne used these items shown in the basement of Wayne's Historical Museum for everyday living. In the foreground of the picture, an old-fashioned grain mill was used to remove the hulls from grain. On the far wall are examples of yokes for oxen and then some tools for building on the pegboard.

A selection of homemade chairs and one original cane kitchen chair are sitting next to an elegantly lined traveling trunk.

On the wall next to the trunk, a section of a huge tree shows its age by its rings — and what a lot of history that tree must have seen.

Museum contains 'memories'

'The committee reported in favor of a two-story building and estimated the cost at $800 complete.'

The Wayne Historical Museum, located at No. 1 Town Square, is Wayne's most important historic building. It is important because of its age and because it contains many "memories" of the founding of this great city and its ancestors.

The museum, originally the Village Hall, was built on the public square in 1878. It was used for village and township offices, council meetings, police and fire departments, elections, justice court and all official meetings until 1950.

In August, 1877, a committee was appointed to submit plans and estimates for building a council chamber and "lockup." The committee reported in favor of a two-story frame building 20-feet by 36-feet and estimated the cost at "$800 complete." The report was accepted and plans were ordered drawn, said Mrs. Mildred Hanchett, museum director.

After some trouble with bids and changes in the original plans for the building, James Lewis of Detroit's bid for $1,300 for the hall were accepted, according to historical reports.

Once having signed the agreement, the building of a village hall began immediately around Aug. 12, according to a report in "The County Review."

The cornerstone, with the date 1878 cut into it, was laid a week later. Even though all work on the building had not been completed, the council held its first meeting in the new council room on Nov. 19, 1878.

The council accepted the Village Hall on behalf of the Village of Wayne at their meeting of Jan. 7, 1879, and adopted a motion to allow the Township of Nankin to use the council room for township elections, board meetings and its clerk's office.

A one-story addition on the east side of the building in the 1920s and another on the north side later were necessary, according to reports.

A small structure for drying hoses was added to the roof of the north side, and a brass pole installed for the firemen. A second-story window was removed to make a door to this area. When this was taken and the window replaced in 1970, the brass pole was left in the lower level, now an exhibit area.

It was probably at the time of these additions that the wooden brackets were removed from the lower slope of the roof and the brick cornice substituted. The original brackets remain in good condition on the entrance and show, on a smaller scale, how the roof was constructed.

All village elections were held in the hall for many years, the police department, organized in 1926, and the fire department shared the building. All village business was conducted there.

In 1950 the village officers and the police department moved into their present building on Sims Avenue and the cells were removed from the basement. In 1952 the fire department was moved to its present building.

The old village building was leased to the Wayne Chamber of Commerce [illegible] Chamber of Commerce and later to Junior Achievement.

The Greater Wayne Historical Society was allowed to store its collection in the building and in spring, 1964 opened an exhibit.

The Wayne City Council appointed a historical commission in 1963, which was responsible for the building. The building was officially designated the "Wayne Historical Museum" in the fall of 1964.

In 1969, all of the historical society's collections were turned over to the commission. All historical objects in the museum are owned by the City of Wayne.

The Wayne Histo[illegible] Museum is open from 1 to 5 p.m. on Fridays and Saturdays. Admission is free. Groups can tour the museum by making an appointment. For information, call 722-0113.

Director 'searches' history

Her role as museum director may have been "foreordained" for Mildred Baxter Hanchett, who serves in that capacity for the Wayne Historical Museum.

Mrs. Hanchett said she never thought she would be as involved in local history as she finds herself these days. She was started on research connected with the local communities and people by the late Dr. James Caraway of Wayne.

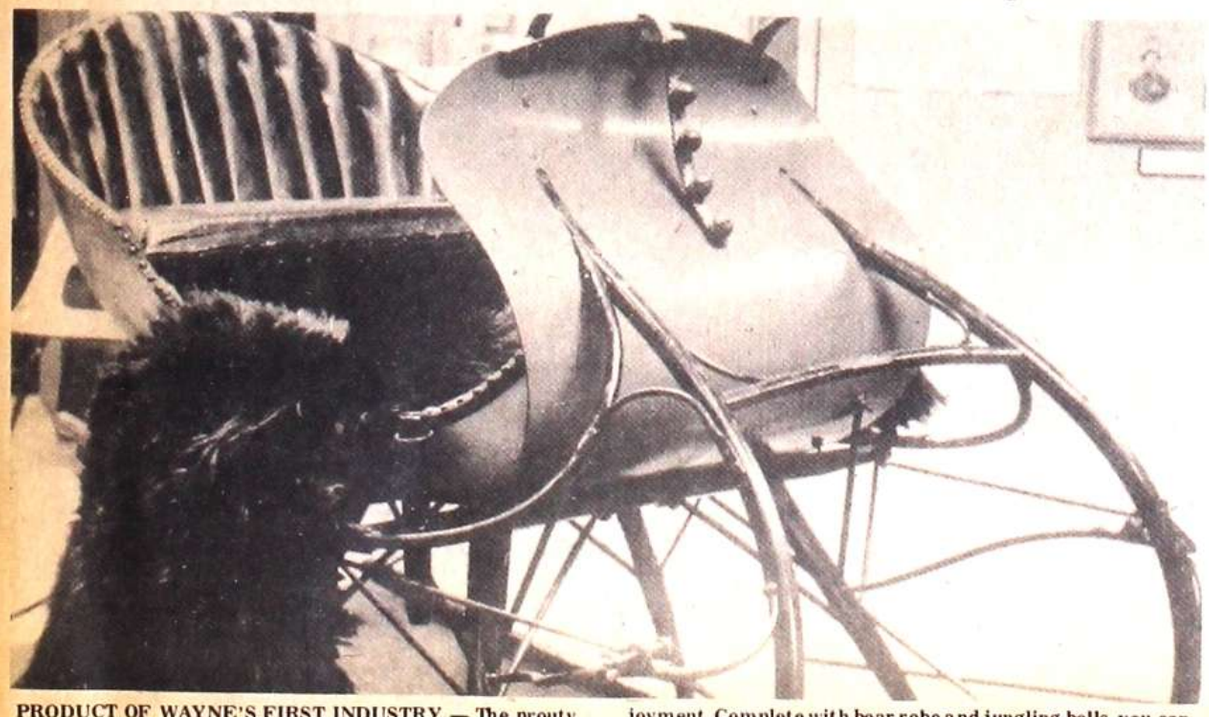
Then came the evolution of the Wayne Historical Society, followed by the establishment of the Wayne Historical Museum.

In her capacity of director, Mrs. Hanchett spends a great deal of time researching and planning.

She arranges exhibits, keeps records on various displays and checks catalogs on items.

DO-IT-YOURSELF GROUND ROAST — Coffee was strictly a do-it-yourself project for the early settlers. Mrs. Mildred Hanchett, curator of the Wayne Historical Museum, demonstrates an old-time coffee grinder surrounded by memoriabilia from household chores of earlier days.

MUSEUM BUILDING — The Wayne Historical Museum, originally the Village Hall, is Wayne's most important historic building. It is located at No. 1 Town Square and is open for public viewing.



PRODUCT OF WAYNE'S FIRST INDUSTRY — The prouty and Glass Company was famous nationwide for the graceful swan-curved sleighs so popular for winter travel and enjoyment. Complete with bear robe and jungling bells, you can almost feel the winter air and hear the hoofbeats of so long ago.

SECRETARY'S TASK MADE EASIER — The Wayne Historical Museum has a set of early typewriters on display - predecessors of the humming IBM machines that sit in modern offices. The one on the left is beginning to resemble later models, but the imagination has to stretch a little to type on the other machine.
